Oklahoma City, Okla., November 7. Governor J. C. Walton lost today in his effort to obtain federal intervention to stop his impeachment trial, and his attorneys tonight were preparing to go forward with the trial tomorrow before the state senate court of impeachment.

Judge J. H. Cottrell in United States district court at Lawton denied the executive's application for a restraining order against the prosecution of the impeachment charges. The judge gave lack of jurisdiction as his reason. He granted a rehearing, however, upon application of counsel for the governor, for which he will set a date later.

Simultaneous with the hearing at Lawton, Governor Walton, through counsel, appeared before the court of impeachment here and entered a plea of not guilty to each of the 22 charges in the bill. He made a detailed answer to five of the charges. The answers to remaining charges will be heard tomorrow morning and the trial is to start at 1:30 p. m.

The action of Judge Cottrell is believed to have removed all possibility of a delay in the trial.

Charges Unfair Trial.
The court declined to consider a motion by George Short, state attorney general, to dismiss Governor Walton's bill of impeachment, and argument was heard directly on the bill.

Governor Walton sought a writ by which witnesses would be summoned for a hearing on charges that he will not be tried fairly by the senate court of impeachment, and that the impeachment charges are the result of a Ku Klux Klan conspiracy participated in by the state legislature. He also asked a restraining order if testimony adduced at the hearing provided a basis.

H. B. Martin, of counsel for the governor, referred to the "sinister influence of the Ku Klux Klan," and charged that the organization is preventing the executive from having an impartial trial, in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the United States constitution.

Counsel opposing the executive's action based their argument on the alleged lack of jurisdiction, declaring that the impeachment case is "now before the highest judicial tribunal of the state" and that no other court is empowered to intervene.

GETS JAIL TERM

OFFICIAL SILENCE COVERS PROGRESS MADE FOR ACCORD

Ambassador Jusserand and Secretary Hughes Continue Conversations on Reparations Parley.

Washington, November 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Absolute official silence as to the nature of continued conversations today between Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Jusserand blocked every effort to obtain information as to whether progress had been made toward an agreement on the scope of the proposed expert inquiry into Germany's economic situation as it affects the reparations problem.

It was said officially, however, that the conversations were continuing. This statement was regarded, in some quarters as significant inasmuch as it indicated that no insurmountable obstacle to reconciling the American and French viewpoints had as yet developed.

The ambassador laid before the secretary detailed explanations from Paris as to the French point of view. The only word obtainable from the diplomat when he left the state department after a half hour conference with Mr. Hughes was this statement:

Sheds No Light.

When there is a definite result it will be brought to your notice."

Secretary Hughes would not go even that far. Evading an effort to get him to say whether he still regarded the situation "hopelessly," he went directly to the conference to the white house to report developments to President Coolidge.

In view of this complete silence as to what had occurred, speculation as to how far direct conversations between Washington and Paris had served to clear the way for an understanding among the allies which would result in the extending of a formal invitation for American cooperation in the proposed inquiry was thrown back upon analysis of press cablegrams from Paris and London.

Paris May Explain.
These dispatches were viewed, particularly those from Paris, describing French official circles as more hopeful of ultimate agreement among the allies, as indicating that distinct progress had been made. At the same time Ambassador Jusserand's guarded statement at the conclusion of his talk with Secretary Hughes, it was pointed out, might be open to the interpretation that an early announcement from Paris was regarded in informed circles as not beyond the range of probability.

The impression that an announcement foreboding a definite agreement among the allies on the language of the invitation to Washington was made.

Complete Text of Findings
Of State Tax Commission

The complete report of the state tax commission, made public Thursday night, is as follows:

October 31, 1923.
Hon. Clifford Walker,
Governor of Georgia.

Sir: The special tax commission appointed to ascertain as far as possible the sentiments of the citizens of the state in regard to changes in the tax system, and to consider and offer suggestions of improvements and alterations in the system that might aid the deliberations of the special session of the general assembly called for November 7, beg to report the following resume of their conclusions.

A more detailed report, setting forth the reasons guiding the commission and embodying certain ultimate aims not set forth in the summary herein given, will be presented later.

1. Budget Commission.
Mr. Gladstone says, "Good finance consists more in the spending than in the collecting of revenue." In order

Professional opinions that the recent sale of certain city school property had realized little more than half of the current value of the property, featured an appeal made before the Fulton county commission Wednesday, when a delegation representing the county school board appeared at the regular monthly session of the commission and asked that the old Boys' High school property be purchased as site and quarters for the Fulton County High school.

Joseph W. Humphries, president, and E. Rivers, member of the school board, acted as spokesmen for the delegation appearing in the interest of the proposed purchase of the property. Mr. Humphries submitted the proposition to the commission, and was immediately met with firm opposition from Chairman George M. Hope, who stated emphatically that he would vote to oppose any move made to purchase property for practically double the amount that it had brought in June at the city school department's auction sale.

Bad Sale for City.
Mr. Humphries countered with the declaration that "a bad sale on the part of the city did not justify refusal on the part of the county to make a good purchase." The discussion developed expressions of opinion as to the real value of the property under consideration.

E. Rivers, prominent real estate dealer and member of the school board, declared that any informed real estate dealer would substantiate his opinion that $70,000 is an extremely conservative estimate to be placed on the cash value of the Boys' High property. He said the strategic location of the ground would convince anyone that the property sold far below its value when purchased for $46,000, the figure said to have been paid when it was sold recently at public auction.

Adams-Cates Realty company now owns the property.

The discussion nether touched on the merits of the property as a strategic site for the Fulton County High school, being confined almost entirely to a discussion of the commercial value of the building and grounds. Mr. Humphries expressed the opinion that the building could be used for a number of years in its present condition.

Up to Finance Committee.
A motion was made and carried that the subject be referred to the finance committee for investigation and recommendation.

Solicitor John Boykin appeared before the commission with the request that immediate steps be taken to consolidate the two criminal divisions of the superior court on one floor of the courthouse building. He stated that much time is lost in the many operations of the necessary removal of the courts. His request met with the verbal approval of the commissioners, but definite action was postponed until the public buildings committee can make specific recommendations as to the details necessary in such action.

Lethbridge, Alta., November 7.—Biting into a stick of dynamite, Joe Blackhorse, an Indian, expired the murder of pretty Winnie Tollerstrup. He died in a hospital here Wednesday.

The brutal slaying of the school girl was discovered Saturday. She had been attacked in her farm house, choked to death and her body partly buried in a hay stack.

Scores of police and citizens formed posses and hunted the Indian. They found him near his little coal mine Wednesday, with part of his head blown off by the explosion, but still alive. Part of his tongue had been blown away, and he could make no dying statement.

DEFENSE COUNSEL
ASKS JUDGE ODOM TO VACATE BENCH

Jurist Is Charged With Bias and Prejudice in Decisions on Misdemeanors.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Bastrop, La., November 7.—Defense counsel in the Morehouse parish misdemeanor cases interrupted the trial for at least three or four weeks today when they filed in district court a motion that Judge Fred M. Odom refuse, or disqualify himself on the ground that he is biased and prejudiced against the defendants. The defendants are charged with infractions of the law in connection with the activities of bands of masked and unmasked men last year which culminated in the kidnapping August 24 of Matt Daniel and T. F. Richard.

The motion for recusal was not unexpected in several quarters. It generally it came as a surprise. Captain J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops of the Morehouse Parish Ku Klux Klan; Benton Pratt, Marvin Pickett and W. G. McIntosh were convicted Monday by Judge Odom for carrying arms upon the premises of another. A motion for retrial was denied by the court the following day and today a motion for reconsideration of the motion for retrial also was denied. There is no appeal from the conviction for a misdemeanor and the conviction carrying with it a maximum of ten days in jail or a fine of $10, or both, stands.

Burnett Found Guilty.
T. Jeff Burnett was adjudged guilty today of "assault with a dangerous weapon," the conviction carrying with it a fine of $100 or ninety days in jail. The case grew out of the holding of Harry Neelis by two masked men, who Neelis testified he had recognized as Burnett and Harley Rogers. Burnett, he said, stopped him at the point of a pistol while Rogers apparently was not armed. (The court reserved decision in the case of Rogers and the defense a moment before court adjourned filed a motion for retrial of Burnett.)

Misdemeanor cases in this state are tried before the district judge sitting alone and he acts as both judge and jury. Dissatisfaction with Judge Odom's handling of the cases already disposed of prompted the defense to move for his disqualification.

"Your defendants represent and show that the judge is incompetent to try and determine the issue in this case for the reason that he is prejudiced, biased and being influenced by extraneous matters," the motion, which embraced each case not yet tried so far.

Charge Prejudice.
"Your defendants represent that in passing upon the case of T. J. Burnett, and Harley Rogers, the court gave expression to sentiments which are inimicable to defendants and their rights and which clearly shows that said court is not a frame of mind to do justice by them in that he has prejudged and impeached the testimony of defendants or a majority of them."

"That in the case of Skipwith and others wherein they were charged with having carried fire arms on the premises of Lon Braddock, some of these defendants were impeached in a similar way and certain witnesses who are to be witnesses in this case were impeached without any legal justification therefore, the state having produced no evidence whatever tending in that direction."

When the motion was submitted Judge Odom requested Attorney-General Coo and his staff to investigate the law relating to recusal. Senator Howard Warren, special assistant, spoke half an hour, analyzing the motion.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, November 7.—Encouragement which democrats are drawing from the recovery of Kentucky and the showing of the party in other elections this week is destined to stimulate the activities of various democratic presidential aspirants who are just now coming out of hibernation.

Democrats familiar with the national situation display a confidence which was missing at this time four years ago. Then, even the most optimistic privately expected defeat because of the unfavorable attitude toward the Wilson administration. But now they believe that a stiff fight will swing the country democratic. Hence every democrat who has his eye on the presidential contest is moving with caution. Most of the aspirants are saying little publicly, but they are exceedingly busy in private, organizing their friends for the pre-convention fight. They regard the prize as worth going after this time.

McAdoo Is Active.
William G. McAdoo is spending a week here conferring with political friends. His organization is further advanced than that of any other candidate, he is dry, popular with organized labor, acceptable to the Klan, and possesses a well-established organization of practical politicians who know how to get results. He has been dining almost every night with his father-in-law, Woodrow Wilson, but whether the former president's support is his candidacy is in doubt. McAdoo is suspected of coldness to the League of Nations, which will alienate a certain bloc of democratic votes. He is classed as progressive, but not radical.

Underwood Conservative.
Senator Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, is more conservative. He has practically announced his candidacy and is now speaking in the south, urging that a candidate below the Mason and Dixon line be given a chance. He is damp and has already Auto Drivers.

Placing of rough rubble stones at street intersections and all crossings to compel automobile drivers to slacken their speed or damage their cars is included in a list of suggestions which the Atlanta Safety Council will propose as a means of checking reckless driving in and about the city. The suggestions were made by Robert L. Coomer, Atlanta insurance man, in an address before the council Wednesday, and were accepted by the council.

It was the unanimous opinion of the executive committee that a license card system such as that used in New York and other large cities will be one of the most important features to be urged. Under this system, no person is permitted to drive a motor vehicle until the police department or other authority has issued him a card. Violations of the law will be punished by taking up the card for a time commensurate with the gravity of the offense, in addition to a fine or imprisonment, as the court may direct. It is believed that this will provide a check on drivers, prevent driving by persons under the age limit, and do a great deal toward bringing about more care.

The safety council will arrange a conference with Chairman Jesse Armstrong of the police committee of

STILLMAN OFFERS
CONFESSION NOTE
IN APPEAL EFFORT

Banker Declares Letter Was Written to Him by Wife, Recently Divorced.

BY HARLAN S. MILLER.

New York, November 7.—A letter throbbing with the sorrow and bitterness of love gone astray, written by one who sought, apparently, to make it clear to James A. Stillman, the millionaire banker, that the infant, Guy Stillman, was not his son, but the child of an Indian, was made public Wednesday.

Whether authentic or not, the letter tendered by her husband as coming from Mrs. Anne Urquhart Stillman is one of the most remarkable documents of vivid human warmth ever wedged into the dusty legal files of an American court.

Pity, defiance and shame are mingled with a tremendous effort to soften the blow of this letter, filed Wednesday by the banker's attorneys in an appeal from the previous ruling in the much discussed divorce proceedings which ended, after complicated legal warfare, in favor of Mrs. Stillman a year ago.

Although the letter was unsigned, it was introduced into the records of the appellate division of the state supreme court as purporting to be written by Mrs. Stillman.

Court Cleared Wife.

It was the famous "confession" letter which Stillman's lawyers tried to introduce as evidence of Baby Guy's illegitimacy in the hearings before Referee Daniel J. Gleason. The latter ruled the letter was improper evidence.

His decision cleared Mrs. Stillman of her husband's charges of misconduct with Fred Beauvais, the Canadian Indian guide, sustained her charges of misconduct against Stillman, and affirmed that Guy was the banker's own son and heir.

The letter is marred by careless grammar, spelling, and punctuation. It is written in gusty, disjointed phrases and quick flowing sentences which poured out free from the restraint of syntax. The writer sees herself and all she loves nailed on the cross of unbending convention and misunderstanding. Dated at the Hotel Iroquois, Buffalo, N. Y., on April 22, 1918, according to the postmark, it reads:

Hates to Hurt.

"Dear Jimmie—You have had such a bad time in your life, have stood things so like a gentleman, that I hate to hurt you. First you and I are not the same in our make-ups. Dr. Russell says to me: 'You don't stand

Peace warrants against three imperial officers of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan which were dismissed in municipal court Wednesday in the absence of the plaintiff, Dr. Fred B. Johnston, will be renewed upon his return to Atlanta, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Birmingham Wednesday.

The dispatch quoted Dr. Johnston as saying that he had been hastily summoned to Birmingham and had found it impossible to return to Atlanta before the cases were called for hearing at noon Wednesday before Judge T. O. Hathecock.

A warrant against Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard, has not been served, due to his absence from the city, and is still in effect. Warrants thrown out of court were against H. K. Ramsey, T. J. McKinnon and Brown Harwood.

Klan to Keep Hands Off.

Imperial headquarters of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan regards the slaying of Attorney William S. Coburn by Philip E. Fox as the result of personal trouble between the principals and will endeavor to avoid becoming involved in the affair, it was stated unofficially at the imperial palace on Peachtree road Wednesday night.

"Efforts are being made to entangle the organization in the case, but the shooting was a personal affair and had nothing whatever to do with the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan," The Constitution's informant stated.

Another development Wednesday was the announcement by Dr. Linton Smith, physician to Fox, that a sanity test to determine Fox's mental condition will be sought.

Dr. Smith stated that he contemplated a consultation with Dr. Newdigate M. Owens, nationally known alienist, who has made his home in Atlanta since the world war. Dr. Owens stated late Wednesday that he had not been approached on the Fox matter by anyone.

Simmons Coming Back.
Anticipated developments today will be the arrival of Colonel William J. Simmons, emperor of the Klan, from Birmingham, accompanied by Dr. Fred B. Johnston; arrival of a delegation of Texas klansmen said to be en route here to offer assistance to Fox; and a series of conferences with various persons during the day by Solicitor John A. Boykin, who is leading the state's investigation, in co-operation with city officers under Captain T. O. Sturdivant.

Fox Maintains Silence.
Fox, in his cell at Fulton tower, has intimated that he will maintain the strict silence that has characterized his imprisonment since the slaying Monday afternoon, until he has definitely engaged counsel. After se-

LEGISLATORS SETTLE

Many New Plans for Change in System Proposed on Opening Day of Extra Session.

Calling upon the state legislature, which convened in special session at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, to enact laws providing for a state income tax, for classification of property and for a reduction of the ad valorem tax rate on real property, the report of the special tax commission was presented to members of the assembly at a dinner given in their honor by Governor Clifford Walker on Wednesday night, at the Peacock cafe.

The commission's report, which is given in full in this issue of The Constitution, also recommends the creation of a state budget system, of a state auditing department, and of a state commissioner of revenues. It urges that means be found to reduce the burden of municipal and county taxation and recommends that the ad valorem tax rate on real property, for state purposes, be immediately reduced from five to four mills, with the provision that, if sufficient revenue can be derived from other sources, it be eliminated entirely at some future date.

The report was presented in printed form to all of the two hundred odd legislators who attended the dinner and members of the commission were the chief speakers of the occasion.

Walker Pledges Support.

Addresses by Governor Walker, Dr. J. H. T. McPherson, of the University of Miami; W. D. Anderson, of Milledgeville; B. T. Brantley, of Blackshear; and Judge U. V. Whipple, of Cordele, in which their experiences at the numerous hearings held by the tax commission were outlined.

In assuring the legislators that the report of the commission had his endorsement, Governor Walker described how the members served at their own expense. From the first conference until the completion of the report "not one selfish, political thought or word was said by any member of the commission," and each man worked with a "high and patriotic purpose to aid the state," the governor asserted.

"Georgia has come to the parting of the ways," Mr. Anderson declared, "where it will be determined whether the state will move forward or drop back."

The state's tax problem has been approached by him, he continued, as a business question. The same conduct that governs the operation of a billion-dollar corporation should govern the state of Georgia, he said. Citizens now are demanding many things from the government in the way of service which were not asked years ago when the state's present tax system was formulated, he stated, adding that he did not believe the authors of tax laws on the statute books expected the state to retain them after they had become inadequate.

Not Enough Money

"I do not know of a single state institution receiving sufficient assistance in its operations," Mr. Anderson said. "The state should provide funds for these institutions in order that our boys and girls may be trained in them and the ideals of Georgia and the south retained."

The state asylum, at Milledgeville, and the School for Feeble Minded, at Augusta, were cited as specific examples where assistance is needed badly. Both Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia, he declared, are not being provided with sufficient funds to operate properly and as a result are being forced to turn away students.

"I am tired of all this talk about Georgia being 'outcast,' Mr. Anderson said. "The state today stands on the doorway of progress and prosperity, and it rests only with us to take advantage of our opportunity."

The state must have a stable and equitable tax system to invite new industrial enterprises and improve agricultural and general business conditions, he said. "I have seen the incidents of progress made in diversified farming."

"The big industries are moving southward," he continued, "but a friend in New England who has spent $25,000,000 in the south during the past two months, Georgia is not getting its share of these industries owing to its tax system. Recently, I was in New York and a friend who already has two mills in Georgia was asking what we were going to do with our tax system."

Cooperation Urged

All the speakers urged the legislators to tackle the problem of making a better state for their "boys and girls." "A patriotic spirit and a willingness to compromise in order that a beginning might be made in establishing a new tax system were recommended."

Following the first session of the assembly, which came to order promptly at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, developments of the day indicated beyond doubt a firm determination on the part of the vast majority of the members to get down to work as quickly as possible and expedite the passage of generally constructive tax measures, in line with the purpose of the session, as given in the governor's formal call.

The official transmission of the tax commission's report will be made at 11:30 o'clock this morning, when both houses will meet in joint session, to receive the message of the governor on the tax situation.

General Tax Bill Up

At a tax committee and means committee of the house, held Wednesday afternoon, the general tax bill, which passed the house at the last session, was taken up. This bill was reintroduced, in the amended form in which it passed the house at the last session, on Wednesday morning by Representative Ennis, of Baldwin, chairman of the ways and means committee.

At the committee hearing it was explained that the reason for failure of the bill to pass the senate was understood because of certain increases in tax rates on insurance companies and banks. A sub-committee was named to go over these sections of the bill and see if they cannot be changed so that the senate will pass it. At the same time the sub-committee will make changes in the bill and see if they can be changed so that the senate will pass it. At the same time the sub-committee will make changes in the bill and see if they can be changed so that the senate will pass it.

After taking this action, the committee decided to postpone consideration of other tax bills until after the report of the tax commission and the governor's message, which will be delivered this morning to a joint session, have been received.

At Wednesday morning's session, the house formally organized for the transaction of business. Twenty-one bills dealing either with taxation or free school books were introduced and a couple of resolutions calling upon the assembly to adjourn sine die also came up.

The first of these, by Whitley, of Douglas county, was referred to the committee on rules by Speaker Neill, inasmuch as it contained clauses involving changes in the rules of the house.

The second resolution, introduced by Wimberly, of Laurens, was overwhelmingly defeated by a rising vote. The author spoke in support of his resolution, while Representative Pope, of Walker, was the sole speaker against it.

Speaker in Control

Representative McMichael tried to introduce a resolution to have all bills dealing with taxation referred to committee of the whole house, but was ruled out of order by Speaker Neill on the ground that this would involve a change in the rules. With but few exceptions, bills were referred to different committees by the speaker without opposition, one or two efforts to secure committee to special committees failing on vote of the house.

When the roll was called as the house opened, only twenty-eight of the 200 members were recorded as absent. In the senate the entire personnel of 61 answered to their names.

The house adjourned at 11:40 o'clock, one hour and forty minutes after opening, until 11 o'clock Thursday morning. At 11:30 today there will be a joint session of both houses to receive the governor's formal message and recommendations on the tax problem.

Budget Bill in Senate

Only three bills were introduced in the senate during its brief session, including a measure by Senator Stephen Pace, of the thirteenth, providing for the creation of a budget system and investigating commission; a bill by Senator Lankford, of the fifteenth, providing for an income tax not to exceed five mills, and a measure by Senator Davis, of the forty-second, providing for repeal of the tax equalization law and for assessment of property on a different basis.

President George Carswell announced that no committee meetings would be held until after the report of the tax commission and Governor Walker's message had been read. Mr. Carswell urged upon the senate the necessity for deliberative action on the taxation question in as brief time as possible, reminding the senators that it was their duty to the state to finish the business which they had been called in extraordinary session to transact, and adjourn.

Carswell Urges Action. "I should like to impress upon each senator," declared the president, "that it is his conscientious duty to lay aside all other matters except those for which we are assembled here to transact, and arrive at some definite action with regard to taxation reform as soon as possible."

Not that I think we should be hasty in our deliberations, but it is our duty to the taxpayers of the state that we conclude our business and adjourn in the shortest length of time possible.

Nineteen Tax Bills

Out of twenty-one bills introduced in the house on the first day of the special session, nineteen dealt with various phases of taxation, while the other two had to do with the free school book issue.

The first bill on the calendar was introduced by Representative Stovall, of Elbert, providing for the repeal of the tax equalization law. This is the same bill that occupied place one on the calendar at the regular session. At that time it was passed by the house but was tabled by the senate, on the ground that some substitute for the equalization law must be passed first. It is predicted that the senate will again take this course, if the bill should again come before them.

Representative Eiders, of Tattnall county, introduced six tax bills on Wednesday and stated that he had three more to introduce at today's session. His bills were modeled largely upon the North Carolina tax system, and provide for an income tax, for classification of property, and for franchise and business taxes.

Two Free Book Plans

The two school book bills introduced differ in that one, provides for free school books for all common school grades at once while the other would furnish the books to the first grade only this year, adding one grade each year until all are provided for.

The general tax bill, which passed the house last session but failed to pass the senate, was reintroduced as bill number 11 for the special session. Measures on taxation offered Wednesday included the following suggested methods of taxation:

A limited net income tax not to exceed three per cent.

A limited income tax not to exceed five per cent and to allow the crediting of ad valorem tax payments.

A classification property tax system.

Sales Tax Proposed

A sales tax of one per cent on actual gross sales at retail.

A graduated income tax, with exemptions, not to exceed five per cent.

Corporation franchise taxes.

Special taxes on luxuries.

Inheritance taxes with exemptions.

Other measures introduced proposed to repeal the tax equalization law, to limit county tax rates, to create a budget commission, with larger powers than the present commission enjoys, to create a revenue department for the collection of delinquent taxes.

The annual Atlanta conference of A. M. E. church convened in Allen temple, Clark and Fraser streets, Wednesday morning, Bishop J. S. Flipper presiding.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Revs. C. A. Wingfield, L. H. Smith and others.

Revs. D. R. Fobbs, J. W. Langster and Morris Brown were elected sermons.

Bishop Flipper, addressing the conference, said this is the fifth of the eight conferences in the state held in the last four weeks, others being held at Blakely, Dublin, Augusta and Athens, and that each has been beneficial and encouraging. Loss of 6,700 members by immigration was reported in general claims. Funds declined 29 per cent in three of the conferences.

"You will be called upon to elect nine ministerial delegates to general conference, May, 1924," Bishop Flipper said. "I say to you as I have said to the other conferences, if presiding elders are your spiritual leaders they are entitled to election. My experience of forty years in the ministry is that if a servant of God would be truly worthy he must be humble in spirit and truly devoted to God. Education may be very dangerous to a young man in the Christian ministry without great faith in God and the work he is called to do."

"We will have an honest and fair election of delegates, and every pastor is expected to reflect credit on himself and this conference by doing only what a Christian would be expected to do."

Presiding Elder H. D. Canaday, of Griffin district, reported progress which indicated he would report in full and over last conference. Dr. J. A. Hadley, head of South Atlanta district, who it is said, will lead the conference to the general conference, said his district would report $100 over last conference. Dr. L. A. Townsley, West Atlanta district, reported in full for all purposes $1,450.50. The Atlanta district, under supervision of Rev. J. H. McFarlin, will report in full Thursday morning. The district will go on in advance of last conference by $350.

Dr. J. A. Hadley preached the annual sermon to a large congregation. Rev. R. H. Wood and his membership are hosts of the preachers and delegates.

Crowds Overflow City Auditorium At Shrine Circus

"There is only one drawback to holding an indoor circus," declared Potentate W. Bayne Gibson, as he stood on the stage of the auditorium Wednesday night at the Shrine circus and gazed out at the thousands who had packed the vast building to its limit, "and that is, the auditorium is the largest building in the city, and it isn't big enough to hold the crowds that want to see the circus."

It was Knights of Columbus night at the circus, and over a thousand knights were present with their families, enjoying to the fullest extent the splendid program put out by the John W. Moore Circus company and the carnival features of the big show. The committee of knights in charge of the distribution of tickets for the splendid turnout of their organization.

Friday night will be a special night for John Rosier Mason lodge, which will attend the circus in a body with their families.

Last night's crowd was the largest that has attended the circus, and the auditorium was filled early, the doors being thrown open at 7 o'clock to accommodate those who were standing in line at that early hour.

The performances begin at 8:20 and continue until 10:45 o'clock.

While the Flying Cadrons, those intrepid trapeze artists, continue to share top honors with Lottie Mayer and her diving nymphs, the other acts are popular and each one contains enough thrills to make an evening's entertainment. Numbers on the program, beside the Cadrons and diving girls, are:

Ben Ali Hadji troupe of Arabian acrobats and tumblers.

LaSere and LeSere, contortion and posturing.

Randou Trio, European clowns.

The Four Janslevs, the world's greatest risley artists.

The Four Merkel Sisters, contortionists.

The Thorntons, novelty aerialists.

Millie Irene Leon and company, in tuxedo de art.

Jim Jam Jems, varied acrobatic clowns, late of the New York Hippodrome.

The Five Cornellas, sensational equilibrist and hand balancers.

New York Democratic Chief Bars Hearst Newspapers

BY UNITED NEWS.

New York, November 7.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of the democratic organization in New York, has barred the Hearst newspapers from his home and urged other "clean thinking" people to do likewise. In a statement explaining his intentions Tuesday night, Murphy extolled the democratic candidates for the supreme court in New York city, all of whom were elected in the face of a terrific campaign against them, and added: "In one quarter where our cause and candidates had a right to expect support and encouragement there was nothing forthcoming but lying and vilification. The voters took the proper value, or lack of value, of these assaults, however, and by their ballots have registered an unmistakable rebuke."

"With the character of these attacks in mind, it is to be hoped that our decent, clean-thinking men and women will not hereafter tolerate in their homes the lying, filthy newspapers under the Hearst management, that have deliberately and foully misrepresented every issue of the campaign. I start to exclude them tomorrow."

Hearst Attacked Democrats.
Election of the democratic judiciary ticket in New York was hailed today as a personal victory for Governor Al H. Smith over William Randolph Hearst.

Smith campaigned for the democratic candidates in New York city while Hearst newspapers attacked them bitterly. Their defeat was called by Hearst as the most important single issue of the election. Instructions to voters as to how to cast their ballots against the democrats were printed in the Hearst papers.

"The victory of the democratic judiciary ticket means that Hearst is dead politically," said James J. Hoey, chairman of the democratic state campaign committee.

"The day of Hearstism, mud-slinging and yellow journalism in campaigning is gone beyond recall. Hearst's usefulness to any party is a thing of the past. Governor Smith put the tag on him and he never can rid himself of the stigma."

"Convicted as Deserter."
Governor Smith said: "There can be no question from the figures about the attitude of the people as to the self-appointed guardian of the interests of the people, William Randolph Hearst. He registered on October 13 and ran away to Florida and failed to vote for the candidates he advocated in his papers. He undertook to play the role of the general and stands convicted as a deserter."

HOLDERNESS WINS SUIT TO COLLECT CASHIER'S DRAFT

Sidney Holderness, Carrollton, attorney and counsel for the Marine Bank and Trust company of New Orleans, has received confirmation of the action of the United States court of appeals in affirming the decision of Judge Samuel L. Sibley in favor of his clients in a suit against the Bank of Palm Beach, Fla. The amount of $10,000 is involved in the claim.

According to the decision payment of cashier's checks is held conditional, notwithstanding the condition under which they are given.

The suit was filed about three months ago by Attorney Holderness to recover the amount of a draft drawn on the Bank of Palm Beach. The bank's defense for refusing payment was that one of the bank's officials had speculated in cotton futures and the draft for the amount involved was drawn in settlement of losses.

A decision in favor of the clients of Attorney Holderness was rendered by Judge Samuel Sibley, but was appealed. The recent decision of the court of appeals in affirming the decision of the lower court is thought to be final.

Sometime after the claim was filed and the case opened, the attorneys, Attorney Holderness associated with him the law firm of Watkins, Russell and Ashill, of Atlanta.

Atlantan Rescued From Drowning In Silver Lake

H. C. Farley, of 996 Highland avenue, was rescued from drowning Tuesday night by John Browning, assistant football coach at Oglethorpe university. It was reported in Atlanta Wednesday. The boat in which Farley and two companions, Charles Beall and J. E. Thomas, were duck hunting, capsized in Silver Lake, near Oglethorpe. Farley was the only one who could not swim, and was left clinging to some willow trees in the middle of the lake while the other two swam to shore for help. Beall received a slight wound in the leg when one of the guns was discharged as the boat turned over, and it was with great difficulty that he and Thomas reached the shore.

Thomas rushed to the university in search of help, returning with Coach Brown. Coach Brown jumped into his automobile and on reaching the lake dived into the water, swimming back to shore with Farley safe in his grasp.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH WILL HOLD MEET IN ATHENS SOON

Athens, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Practically 300 churches of Christ in Georgia will send delegates to the state convention, which meets at the First Christian church here November 13-15.

A committee of Athenians has been appointed and is hard at work arranging for the convention. Dr. M. B. Miller, pastor of the local church, is general chairman with L. L. LaBou, Graves Stephenson, Mrs. J. F. Whitehead, Mrs. R. J. Turner, S. W. Usary and Mrs. William Pittard as associates.

The first session of the convention will be led by Dr. Ben F. Foster, pastor of the First Christian church in Macon. Dr. E. R. Quick, southeast regional superintendent of the United Christian Missionary society, of St. Louis, Mo.; Miss Ruth Thompson, elementary field worker, of Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. W. F. Mott, superintendent of Christian Endeavors in Georgia; of Waycross; J. Randall Harris, of Savannah, and R. D. Webb, of Atlanta, will be among those of the program. Dr. William T. Moore, of Atlanta, also is on the program.

Fate of Youth In Murder Trial To Jury Today

The fate of Amos Smith, 17-year-old boy, charged with the murder of Tom Thrasher, negro, will be put in the hands of the jury shortly after his trial is resumed this morning before Judge E. D. Thomas, according to indications apparent when court adjourned Wednesday.

Presentation of evidence has been completed, and only one argument remains to be delivered by attorneys.

According to the indictment against the youth, Thrasher was struck on the head with a brick on the morning of July 30 while the two were employed in the Southern railway freight yards. An altercation is alleged to have preceded the fatal blow.

Smith pleaded self-defense when placed on trial Wednesday, declaring that Thrasher threw his hand to his hip pocket as if to draw a pistol. He is represented by Attorney William Schley Howard and J. Walter LeCraw, while the prosecution is being handled by Attorneys E. A. Stephens and John H. Hudson.

STEGALL FREED WHEN EX-WIFE DROPS CHARGES

The case was dismissed at the request of Mrs. Stegall, who said that which grew out of an attack alleged to have been made on her by her former husband while she refused to remarry him.

DEFENSE COUNSEL ASKS JUDGE VACATE BENCH

tion paragraph by paragraph and stating the law in relation to each as understood by the attorney-general's staff. He gave no opinion as to whether the court might overrule the motion.

Decision Is Reserved.
Judge Odum reserved decision until tomorrow. If he overrules the motion, defendant counsel has stated an appeal to the supreme court will be taken.

If he should grant it which was indicated he would not, the supreme court would have to appoint another district judge to substitute for him. He can call upon the judge of an adjoining district to come to Bastrop and rule on the motion, which the defense contended he must do for it challenged the authority of Judge Odum to act. Should this course be followed and should the decision be favorable to Judge Odum, the defense still would appeal to the supreme court.

Judge Odum, in announcing he would rule on the motion tomorrow explained that no matter what his decision might be the trials would be interrupted. He postponed all cases in definitely, discharged the witnesses and dismissed the witnesses until further notice. District Attorney David I. Garrett said he did not believe it possible to resume the trials within the next three weeks, the earliest, and some court attaches were expecting a delay of a month or six weeks.

Judge Odum, before adjourning court, said it was no pleasure for him to have to pass judgment upon persons who have been his friends and neighbors for years but that he was not one to shirk responsibility. In actions, he said, were purely impersonal.

Cites Judge's Remarks.
It was in announcing decision in the case of Burnett at the forenoon session that he uttered remarks to which the defense took exception in the motion for vacation of the bench. He testified that he had nothing to do with the Neelis affair and numerous witnesses were put upon the stand to prove that he was at work at a car-bou plant at Spiker, the day in question. All of the alibi testimony concerned definitely the day of August 17, 1922, however, while Neelis had said the hold-up occurred "on or about August 17," and the court disregarded it. It then was Burnett's word against that of Neelis.

Judge Odum declared he had known Burnett for many years and he agreed with the many witnesses that his character had been of the best. He said, however, that these trials were not ordinary trials, that the times in Morehouse parish were not ordinary times.

Under normal conditions, he said, he would have believed Burnett's testimony. The court declared it would take a strong man in Burnett's position to come into court and confess to complicity in the hold-up, and he added that he did not believe the defendant had the strength to do so. Burnett he said could not be frank with the court.

Court Knows "Stress."
"The court knows the stress under which he is laboring," Judge Odum said. "He has been connected with serious tragedy which occurred in this parish. He was even arrested on a charge of murder, he was under guard while in a sanitarium in Shreveport and later he was at liberty under $5,000 bond."

Mr. Burnett is named in other charges on this docket, all of them leading to the disappearance of Watt Daniel and T. F. Richard, the transactions which set in motion the tragic ending of the two.

The court reiterated that it did not mean to convey the impression that it believed Burnett guilty of complicity in various other cases on the docket nor that it meant to infer that he had anything to do with the Daniel Richard case.

The establishment of Burnett's complicity in several of the misdemeanors committed by masked men, which preceded their kidnapping of Daniel and Richard, would place Burnett in a serious predicament in relation to that case and it added that it did not believe Burnett could confess a part in the Neelis affair.

Did Not Expect Frankness.
"The court did not expect Mr. Burnett to be candid with it and it must make allowances in consideration of the stress under which he is laboring," Judge Odum said.

The judge added that the court had a duty to perform and he concluded by pronouncing Burnett guilty. The relation of the Neelis hold-up to the kidnapping of Daniel and Richard was close. Neelis was stopped by two masked men and taken to a locality where he met a party of men with blackhounds. They informed him, he testified, that they had the wrong man. He asked if they were not after Richard but received no direct reply.

Neelis escaped here and employed Richard as a mechanic. The same afternoon Richard was abducted by a band of blackhounded men, taken into the country, questioned and permitted to return to Bastrop unharmed. A week later Richard and Daniel were kidnapped and never seen alive again.

The court tomorrow forenoon will rule on the vacation motion and announce its decision in Burnett's case.

Extension Project Progress Reported At Civic Club Meet

Right of way through most of the route of the proposed extension of Forrest avenue through the Druid Hills and Highland avenue sections was secured. It was reported to the Ninth Ward Civic association Tuesday, according to an announcement Wednesday.

Press Huddleston, newly-elected chairman of the association, appointed chairman of the standing committees, and the entire personnel of all committees will be made public in the near future.

George W. West and C. M. Zattan, retiring president and secretary, were presented with cuff links in appreciation of their services.

HIRSCH TO ADDRESS TEMPLE ON SUNDAY

Harold Hirsch, prominent attorney, vice president of the Coca-Cola company and member of the firm of Candler, Thompson & Hirsch, will address the open forum meeting of the temple Sunday morning at 11:15 o'clock. The subject of his address will be "The Heart of the City."

As Sunday is Armistice day, a large attendance is expected to hear the address. Rabi David Marx will be absent from the city on this day, as he will address the soldiers at Camp Benning. The public is invited to attend.

OFFICIAL SILENCE COVERS PROGRESS

ton would come from Paris in the event such an agreement is reached as based largely on a feeling that Premier Poincare might desire to explain his position in his own words.

Observe U. S. Neutrality.
Washington officials at no time have been willing to discuss the details of the triangular negotiations in Paris and London have been willing to go. They have taken the position that they must observe diplomatic conventions involved in the fact that technically speaking the United States is not a party to the discussion of the language in which it may be invited to lend its aid in the present crisis.

The conversations between London and Washington in the first instance and those now in progress between Washington and Paris are supplementary to the direct and formal negotiations among the allied governments themselves. However great may be the practical effect of these conversations toward bringing about an agreement among the allies, officials feel they can not make any disclosures, but must confine themselves to stating the American attitude on points that may arise in the negotiations abroad.

In the Washington viewpoint the present negotiations with Paris are in substance a further effort to extend American helpfulness to the European powers as a admittedly a difficult situation. They are designed, it is obvious, to help the allied governments find a way in which to accept the proffer of more definite American aid which is already before them.

COMMISSION PLANS IMMEDIATE ACTION.

Paris, November 7.—(By The Associated Press.)—The reparations commission has decided to comply immediately with the German request for a hearing on the reparations question as proposed in the Berlin government's note of October 24, if the several governments, including the United States, are unable to agree regarding the setting up of the advisory investigating committee.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the commission last evening at which Colonel James A. Logan, official observer for the United States, was present.

The Germans in their note last month asked the commission to begin an examination into Germany's capacity for payment and to allow representatives of the Berlin government personally to explain the situation.

BRITISH CABINET DISCUSSES REPLY.

London, November 7.—(By The Associated Press.)—Premier Poincare's latest communication relating to the proposed committee to investigate Germany's reparations resources was discussed informally by the members of the British cabinet today, but it is understood no decision was taken pending the result of the French premier's latest representations to Washington.

Officials here find it difficult to gauge the chances of the committee of experts being formed, particularly as the advice from Paris indicate France feels the creation of such a body at this juncture will be merely an academic gesture in the face of the serious current and threatened events in Germany. The dispatches from the United States seem to leave the issue equally in doubt, a government spokesman here remarking today that the American correspondents appear to blow hot and then blow cold on the attitude of the United States.

The British government, however, has not abandoned hope of a favorable outcome and looks for some encouragement from Washington as a result of Ambassador Jusserand's visit to President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolium, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolium is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agent for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creosolium contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creosolium is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creosolium Co., Atlanta, Georgia.—(adv.)

support the French attitude toward the proposed international committee of experts, there is a growing impatience here over the hindrances in the way of appointing a commission to investigate Germany's capacity to pay reparations.

The Times in a strongly worded editorial deplores the indications that the proposal may have to be abandoned and pleads for an immediate and unrestricted inquiry.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER. PARIS BELIEVES.

Paris, November 7.—(By The Associated Press.)—The prospect for an agreement between France and Great Britain on the text of the invitation to the United States to join the conference of experts for examination of the reparations question were regarded in diplomat, and French official circles today as brighter than yesterday.

The improved tendency was said to be due to the tendency of the British government to accept in attendance at the Premier Poincare's reservation restricting the estimate of Germany's capacity to pay to the "present."

M. Poincare, it is stated, already has declared he is willing to give a rather elastic interpretation to this reservation. Discussion is proceeding as to whether an accord can not be reached on the understanding that the word "present" would mean the period of the moratorium asked for by Germany, which everyone admits must be granted for at least four years.

The French premier is understood to desire an early decision as there is uneasiness in the foreign office, as to the effect of a prolonged press campaign on French public opinion.

Another alternative suggested in the effort to reach an accord in the elimination of the phrase, "capacity for payment," which has proved so irritating to the French official mind. The British, Italian and Belgian diplomatists have considered a new formula which would mean the same thing but satisfy French sensibilities. "Productive resources" or "progressive payments" are among the phrases proposed. The theory is that by adding such progressive payments a total might be arrived at without the objectionable "capacity for payment" idea ever having been mentioned.

Ambassador Jusserand, in his talk yesterday with President Coolidge, "had the opportunity of noting the fine qualities of the sentiments expressed by President Coolidge, and his manifestation of friendship for our country," says the semi-official Temps in an editorial today.

"The American government," adds the newspaper, "is equally ready to aid Europe if the conditions permit."

The theory is that by adding such progressive payments a total might be arrived at without the objectionable "capacity for payment" idea ever having been mentioned.

Ambassador Jusserand, in his talk yesterday with President Coolidge, "had the opportunity of noting the fine qualities of the sentiments expressed by President Coolidge, and his manifestation of friendship for our country," says the semi-official Temps in an editorial today.

"The American government," adds the newspaper, "is equally ready to aid Europe if the conditions permit."

Discussion is proceeding as to whether an accord can not be reached on the understanding that the word "present" would mean the period of the moratorium asked for by Germany, which everyone admits must be granted for at least four years.

The French premier is understood to desire an early decision as there is uneasiness in the foreign office, as to the effect of a prolonged press campaign on French public opinion.

Another alternative suggested in the effort to reach an accord in the elimination of the phrase, "capacity for payment," which has proved so irritating to the French official mind. The British, Italian and Belgian diplomatists have considered a new formula which would mean the same thing but satisfy French sensibilities. "Productive resources" or "progressive payments" are among the phrases proposed. STATE DENTISTS MEET IN ATHENS

Athens, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—The progress of dentistry from the time when a toothbrush was a curiosity until today, when the profession is going behind the causes of human life resulting from defective teeth and seeking to prevent them, was outlined here this afternoon by Dr. Otto U. King, of Chicago, at the Georgia Dental convention, which opened this morning.

Dr. King is secretary of the American Dental association and editor of the association's official organ. He told of the growth of the association, from a membership of approximately 600 to 34,000, since 1913. Preventive dentistry is being stressed at the convention here, which closed Friday with the installation of Dr. C. C. Howard, of Atlanta, as president.

The convention opened this morning with welcome addresses and one address by President Newton A. Trague, of Augusta. Tuesday night the Psi Omega and Xi Psi Chi fraternities held meetings and initiations. Dr. B. Friedman, of Atlanta, was elected president of Xi Psi Chi; Dr. H. L. Parks, of Atlanta, first vice president; Dr. B. O. Holtzendorf, of Atlanta, vice president, and Dr. H. E. Latta, of Atlanta, secretary.

Professor Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, spoke before the society tonight on the subject of "Dentistry and Education," and told the members of the society how important the question of the proper care of the teeth had become in the education program. Professor Sutton said that it was probably the duty of school teachers to become the service for the school children, but that the dentists should help create a public spirit that would demand health and hygiene in the schools. He told of numerous cases in Atlanta where backward children had been turned into honor students by having their teeth cared for.

He cited the results of the Grant Park school and the work accomplished there through the generosity of Cator Woodford. He said that he regretted that many persons still thought it was encroaching on the rights of the home to demand that their children's teeth be looked after in the school. "Self-preservation is our first commandment," he said, and building and preserving the health of school children certainly is a part of education.

Dodd Will Lecture On President's Power At Chamber Lunch

"The Growing Power of the President" will be the subject of an address by Professor William E. Dodd, of the history department of Chicago university, at the forum luncheon at 2:30 o'clock today at the chamber of commerce building.

Dr. Dodd is considered an authority among modern historians, and is author of several books including "Life of Jefferson Davis," "Statesmen of the Old South," "Woodrow Wilson and His Work," and other recognized historical authorities.

In announcing Dr. Dodd's appearance today, Martin Underwood, chairman of the chamber forum committee, stated that letters had been mailed all members of the organization, but that letters making reservations for plates at the luncheon would not reach him in time, and requested that those wishing reservations telephone to Commerce Building, Walnut street, as soon as possible.

Dr. Dodd will speak at Emory university at 8 o'clock tonight on "The Issue of the Civil War," and Friday night on "The Advent and Significance of Woodrow Wilson."

Both talks will be under auspices of the Emory Lecture association.

Dr. Dodd will speak at Agnes Scott auditorium at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning on "Woman Doctrine a Hundred Years Ago and Today," under auspices of the Agnes Scott Lecture association.

Vigorous Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and ever-widening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, ruddy glow of Old Age—sixteen and sixty—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. S. S. S. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakening, health undermining Old Age. S. S. S. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich, red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old Age—once a dreaded agony becomes a vigorous, enjoyable, care-free time of life.

S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and bark—scientifically prepared and proportioned. Welcome Old Age when it comes. Be ready to withstand the attacks of diseases that follow in its wake. Meet Old Age with a hearty handshake. A handshake that speaks of well being—of a vigorous, clear thinking, red blooded constitution. S. S. S. is your best friend when Old Age is seen rounding the corner. Get a bottle and drive care and worry away. All leading drug stores carry it. The large size is the more economical.

DRIVE IN AMERICUS TO CUT TAX BURDEN

Americus, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Declaring that "taxes, whether local, state or federal, have reached a point where they are slowly strangling business," Dan Chappell, prominent young Americus attorney, Tuesday launched a movement here seeking to reduce the burden of taxation without impairing efficiency in any municipal department. The movement was launched at a meeting of the Lions' club, and was suggested, Chappell stated, by the fact that within the last few months approximately 100 citizens of Americus have left here and gone elsewhere to reside.

In presenting his plan, Chappell criticized the custom of taxpayers in many places, complaining against the burden of taxation. Instead of complaining, Chappell suggested to the club, an organized united effort for the advancement of Americus with all politics eliminated and the movement based upon solid economic grounds. "We have in Americus a number of splendid auditors and efficiency experts working for different concerns here," he said, "and I believe that if the mayor and city council would request several of these experts to check city accounts and examine departments, a great saving could be effected."

MARY WILL ATTEND OGLETHORPE DINNER

More than a hundred reservations for the Oglethorpe memorial dinner to be held Friday night at 6:30 o'clock at the Capital City club have been made. It was stated Wednesday night by Edgar Watkins, chairman of the committee on arrangements, "Each mail brings numerous requests for reservations," he said, "and it is expected that an assemblage of over two hundred will be on hand to hear Dr. Thorndell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university, relate the story of the finding of the tomb of general James E. Oglethorpe, Georgia's founder, in the little church at Cranham, England."

"Representative W. D. Upshaw, of the fifth district, who will give Dr. Jacobs valuable assistance in his efforts to have the bodies of General and Lady Oglethorpe removed to Georgia for reinterment in the Oglethorpe campus, has signified his intention of coming from Washington to attend the dinner. All Georgia representatives in congress, Governor Clifford N. Walker and Mayor Walter A. Sims have been invited to be present as honor guests and reservations have been made for them."

Music will be furnished by the Oglethorpe university orchestra, and an interesting and entertaining program has been arranged. Dr. Lucian Lamar Knight will be one of the speakers on the program and former Senator Hoke Smith is expected to preside.

RED CROSS PREPARES FOR 1923 ROLL CALL

With a goal of 250,000 members out of 5,000,000 for the entire country, the southern division of the American Red Cross will hold its annual roll call anniversary day, November 11, through Thanksgiving, according to an announcement here today.

Using the slogan, "Help The Red Cross Do Everywhere What You Would Do If You Were There," the annual roll call division of the Red Cross is working in the last twelve months the organization has expended over $163,500 in aiding thousands of disaster victims. Over 51,000 exercises men or their families have been assisted in adjusting government claims, while 81 nurses have made over 151,800 visits to homes where sickness and disease required expert nursing attention.

The annual report for the fiscal year ending July 1, recently completed, shows that in fifteen serious disasters in the south in the last twelve months the organization has expended over $163,500 in aiding thousands of disaster victims. Over 51,000 exercises men or their families have been assisted in adjusting government claims, while 81 nurses have made over 151,800 visits to homes where sickness and disease required expert nursing attention.

CHARGE WEDDING EXPENSES TAKEN FROM SHOE FIRM

Richmond, Va., November 7.—(Special.)—Learning today that D. R. James, held at Macon, Ga., and wanted here on the charge of obtaining $1,000 from the W. H. Miles Shoe company under false pretenses, is determined to fight extradition, local authorities began preparing requisition papers which will be forwarded to Governor Walker of Georgia. James obtained a road position with that company last month on representation that he was an experienced shoe salesman. He was supplied with samples and $100 in money and set out on a southern trip. A few days later, he wrote from Charleston, S. C., that he was planning to marry a young woman of that city and desired an advance of an additional $100 to cover expenses incident to the wedding.

The firm was reluctant to send him the money, but it decided to do so when he followed up the request with orders for goods totaling $4,700. Inquiry disclosed, however, that all the orders were bogus, according to officials of the firm. James was located in Macon where he was honeymooning, and was arrested at the request of the Richmond house.

HEARING IN MACON TO BE HELD TODAY

Macon, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—D. R. James, of Richmond, Va., said to be a traveling salesman is being held by the Macon police awaiting arrival of an officer from Virginia.

It is reported here that James is charged with sending in bogus orders to the shoe house he represents in order to get funds for his honeymoon trip. When he was first arrested a week ago the charges are said to have been settled, but later additional charges were made and Virginia authorities wired they would send an officer for James. Attorney Walter B. Godwin, however, says that the charges were made and Virginia authorities wired they would send an officer for James. Attorney Walter B. Godwin, however, says that the charges were made and Virginia authorities wired they would send an officer for James.

James married Miss Alma Thorpe of Macon, and Tallahassee, Fla., October 17. He is being held under guard at a local hotel, and in the event he is denied his freedom tomorrow, he will fight extradition when the papers from Virginia are presented to Governor Walker.

Thomasville, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Representative women from the Presbyterials of Atlanta, Athens, Augusta, Macon, Savannah and southwest Georgia are in attendance upon the Georgia Synodical, which opened here today for a two days' session.

The synodical was called to order this morning by the president, Mrs. W. A. Turner, Jr., of Newnan, and welcome greetings were given by Miss Marion Varnedoe in behalf of the Thomasville auxiliary and Mrs. W. C. Verren, of Moultrie, from the southwest Presbyterial. The response was by Mrs. J. E. Good, of Cedartown. Most of the session was taken up with reports from various committees and officers of the synodical. At noon the synodical was entertained at luncheon by the local auxiliary and afterwards

BAGGETT REWARDS
NOW TOTAL $1,600

Rewards totaling $1,600 have been offered in the case of P. R. Baggett, Douglas county farmer who mysteriously disappeared late Friday, October 26.

The family of the missing man offered $100 for the body, and $500 for the arrest and conviction of persons believed to have murdered Baggett. Governor Walker recently announced a reward of $350 for persons responsible for Baggett's disappearance, and citizens of Douglas county offer $650 for the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for his disappearance.

Sheriff A. S. Baggett, of Douglas county, brother of the missing man, is leaving nothing undone in his efforts to locate the body of his brother and in running to earth those whom he believes murdered his brother near Mason and Turner bridge, and either dropped the body into the Chattahoochee river or spirited it away for concealment elsewhere.

Several score volunteer workers have dragged the river and adjoining streams in the Mason and Turner bridge section, but no trace of the missing man has been found.

Rheumatism
—Neuritis*LEAVE YOU FOREVER

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery to others who took it, with what might be called marvellous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRHU with the understanding that he will freely return the purchase money on the first pint bottle to all who state they received no benefit. —(adv.)

TWO POLISH COUNTS PUNCH TIME CLOCK

Chicago, November 7. — Count Joseph Rozwadowski, son of General Thaddeus Rozwadowski, commander of the Polish army in 1920, and Count Antoine Potocki, nephew of Count Maurice Potocki, Polish minister to France, have been punching the time clock every morning since last August, at an industrial plant here. Along with the overalls and dinner pail they have adopted the plain American title "Mister."

Since demobilization of Europe, they said, they have been left without employment and decided to get "jobs" in America. Both are apprentices in the engineering department of the plants.

The high school bank is not a dummy. Banking hours are from 8 to 9 in the morning, during which time deposits of any size from one cent to five dollars are taken through the tellers' windows.

Girls Like Banking.

This course is popular among the girls. Eighty per cent of the banking class is composed of girls.

Miss J. Spencer Knapp, assistant cashier of the Lowry Bank and Trust Company of Georgia, has demonstrated that women can make a success in this line of work. Miss Knapp has been connected with the Lowry for over twenty years, and is now assistant to the vice president and executive manager of the banking department, H. Warner Martin.

Another woman of the Lowry system is Miss Hazel Brazel, of the bookkeeping department, who took the banking course at the Commercial high school prior to her making a connection with the bank.

The Lowry Bank and Trust Company of Georgia has supervised the installation of many such departments in schools of other cities throughout Georgia, Florida and Alabama. High school students are receiving thorough, practical instructions in modern banking methods.

Officers of the Commercial high school bank are: President, Eloise Cheek; vice president, Lillian Morgan; secretary of board, Hattie Francis

SPECIAL offering of Kuppenheimer suits and OVERCOATS

$45

The most generous display of fine overcoats ever shown in Atlanta presented to you at a price that makes immediate buying a very profitable business proposition. Fine fleecy, wool, lustrous foreign and American fabrics developed into sturdy, good-looking models. Blanket back worsteds are fashioned into box coats with straight, swagger lines and included in this very unusual offering. The new double faced plaids in rich colorings ranging from copper brown to hazy green have also entered this value-giving race.

This special offering of Kuppenheimer suits presents the famous "Biltmore Jr.," a refined young men's model with tracing body lines—in a grey medium weight unfinished worsted; blue and black worsted with white chalk line stripes; broken checked chevrons in several rich color combinations. The "Buckingham," a loose fitting model, presents a pencil striped blue worsted and many other desirable fabrics. The "Drexel," presenting a brand new style idea in snugly fitting models offers a cheviot of sunset brown with compact rotary stripe of grey; black chevrons with dotted silk pencil stripe and tropical basket weaves in autumn brown. The "Harlan," a very classy loose fitting college man's model, is represented in many attractive patterns.

Many other types of suits and overcoats have entered this value-giving demonstration for your saving and "well-drestness." Big values in hats, shoes and furnishings help to make this a real worth-while merchandising event.

HEAVY GRAIN CROP PLANTED IN FLOYD

Constitution Bureau.
T. J. Bryson, Mgr., Phone 184
Rome, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Floyd county farmers are planting small grains in larger quantities this year than ever before, according to local seedmen and others in a position to know.
The crop of rye already planted is probably not the largest in the history of the county, it is said, because of unfavorable seasons, but, conditions considered, the county's rye crop will be an unusually large one. Local seed stores have had an unusually heavy run on barley, and with the planting season about over, seed barley is scarce.
Wheat and oats are being planted now, it is said, in larger quantities than in many years, at least. The acreage in oats will be especially large, it is said, and local seed dealers are finding it difficult to keep a supply of seed oats. Wheat, too, will be planted in larger quantities than for several years, it is thought, while the acreage in alfalfa and clover will run far ahead of anything the county has ever before known. The high price of clover seed is not preventing farmers from buying in liberal quantities, it is pointed out. Vetch and other pasture grasses are also coming in for more attention this fall than ever before.

A determination on the part of farmers to live at the prospect of a shortage of farm labor and farm schedules that call for only a small acreage in cotton have all contributed to the increase in the acreage that is being given to small grains, local seedmen believe. Thousands of acres that would have gone into cotton in pre-war years are now being sown down, it is shown, and in not a few cases, farmers are planning to turn land they cannot cultivate without negro labor into pasture lands. This last departure, it is shown, is encouraged by the fact that Floyd county's cooperative cheese factory is making strong efforts to increase the amount of milk available for its use.

Sent to Road Gang.
Rome, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—The coming of cold weather continues to work to the advantage of Floyd county's public roads. Scouring to remove dirt from the roads is being "trained" to come through Rome and not a few of them are finding their way to the Black Bluff chinking camp where they will be several months making the county roads better.
Jack Vissar, John W. Ruth and Jimmie

Johnson, all young white men, appeared before Judge Bale of the city court this morning and pleaded guilty to riding freight trains. Each went to the gaol for four months when he failed to produce "$20 and costs."

Aid Graves Fund.
Rome, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—The Woman's Building association plans to raise whatever remains of the $1,500 for the Charles Graves Memorial fund after the committees that are now at work have finished their canvass. Mrs. W. J. Shaw, president of the association, has appointed committees to canvass every part of the city that has not been covered by the men's committees. The women will begin work at once, it is announced.

New Plan in Court.
Rome, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Judge John W. Bale will set a new precedent in the local city court when it opens on December 5 by trying both criminal and civil cases during the opening week. Judge Bale's custom has been to try only civil cases at each session of this court. Judge Bale's idea is that there is considerable loss in trying civil cases, and he plans to sandwich in a criminal case whenever there is a necessary halt in the civil business.

"Love Will Find."
Rome, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Miss Della F. Piper, an employee of a local paint factory, has just changed her place of residence from Rome to New York city where she served her name in a pair of pants on which she was working some months ago. In essentially, she has changed her name as well as her place of residence. It was "Just to see what would happen" that Miss Piper put her name and address in the waistband of that pair of pants. Something did happen. Miss Piper had a letter, it was from James J. Curran, of New York city. James scented romance, and he wasn't backward about saying so in the very first letter he wrote.

Escapes in Crash.
Rome, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Although the automobile in which he was riding yesterday morning turned completely over three times and was practically demolished, C. E. Gillan, of this city, escaped almost without a scratch. The accident occurred on the Summerville pike just beyond the three-mile mark. Gillan, who was about to hit another car in which there was a woman and several small children, was glibly swerved sharply to the right and plunging down an embankment. The car turned completely over three times in its 20 foot drop.

"Booster Week."
Rome, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Rome's "trade booster week" will start Saturday with 35 local retail firms taking part in the general program, which is expected to stimulate interest throughout all of north-west Georgia. Everything from hard coal to millinery is sold by firms that will cooperate to offer unusual attractions to buyers during the "booster week" which will run until close until December 29.

city council and Chief Beavers. It is believed that the knowledge they have gained on their tour of other cities, combined with the suggestions of the council, which has been receiving extensive study to traffic conditions, will result in an ordinance which will greatly reduce accidents and traffic congestion and improve conditions generally. The safety council is composed of business men all of them motorists and many of them owners of fleets of trucks, who are at work to make the streets safe for drivers and pedestrians alike.

Coke Davis, president of the Atlanta Motor club and chairman of the safety council committee on education, reported that arrangements have been completed to supply teachers in the city schools with a four-page booklet on safety to be used in teaching children to avoid the dangers of the streets. A special program will also be carried out before Christmas to warn the children against dangers attendant on the holiday celebrations.

drawn the fire of the Anti-Saloon league. Business men generally are friendly to him. He has recently shown some tendency to weaken in the League of Nations, which he formerly favored, at least, he does not seem to be as firm as he once was. He is still strong for the league and hopes that events in Europe will work around in his favor by next spring. Cox Warm Up.
James M. Cox has been warming up out in Kentucky, where he aided the state. He carried Kentucky in 1920 in face of a republican landslide, governing the state until the legislature to the republicans. He is still strong for the league and hopes that events in Europe will work around in his favor by next spring. McAdoo took one of Cox's Ohio men, Judge Rockwell, for his middle western rockers, but the Cox forces will seek the Ohio delegation anyway.

Chairman Adams Makes Statement.
Washington, November 7.—John T. Adams, chairman of the republican national committee, today issued the following statement in reference to yesterday's elections:
"Yesterday's election decided one United States senatorship and six members of the house of representatives in northern states. Of these six congressional contests, one in Illinois and two in New York state were in districts hopelessly democratic. One New York district and the Vermont district are normally republican."

"The one district in which there was a real contest was the 24th New York, embracing part of New York City and Westchester county. The democrats carried this district in 1918 by 10,000 majority and in 1922 by 8,000. They confidently expected to carry it this year. The republican candidate, Benjamin Fairchild, was elected by a very substantial majority in a contest in which national issues were stressed."

"Both the national and state organizations of the democratic party made unusual efforts to carry the Vermont senatorial election. Chairman Hull of the democratic committee issued a statement on the eve of election, predicting a democratic victory in that state."
"The republican candidate for the United States senate, Porter H. Dale, was elected by two to one, and the republican candidate for the house of representatives, E. W. Gibson, by four to one."

DEMOCRATS WIN FOUR IN CONGRESS
Democrats were elected yesterday in all three states where there were gubernatorial elections—Kentucky, Maryland and Mississippi. In Kentucky, where the only senatorial contest was held, returned a republican, Porter H. Dale, who defeated Park H. Pollard, cousin of President Coolidge.

In the nine contests for the house the democrats won four and the republicans three, one of the republican victories being an upset in which former Representative Fairchild defeated his democratic opponent for the place made vacant by the death of J. Vincent Gandy in the 24th New York district. Party alignment was unchanged in the other congressional elections.

Results in Kentucky.
The victory of the democrats in Kentucky, where Representative William H. Fields defeated Charles L. Dawson, represented a swing of the pendulum which at the last election swept Governor Edwin E. Morrow, republican, into office. Mr. Fields' majority was decisive and he will have a democratic legislature to support him.

Governor Ritchie, reelected in Maryland over Alexander Armstrong, republican, had an increased majority over his first election. H. T. Whitfield, democrat, had no opposition in Mississippi.

In New York state the republicans retained control of the general assembly, but the democratic judiciary ticket in Manhattan and the Bronx carried into office, overwhelming the republican and independent tickets supported by William R. Hearst. The soldiers' bonus apparently was carried and the hydroelectric power project beaten.

Local issues were voted on in various sections of the country. Virginia turned down a $50,000,000 bond issue for good roads. Ohio elected mayors supported by the Ku Klux Klan in Youngstown, Portsmouth, Akron and several smaller cities. Philadelphia returned W. Free-land Kendrick, republican, as mayor, by an overwhelming majority.

Woman Named Judge.
In Illinois Miss Mary M. Bartelme, the first woman to be elevated to a circuit court judgeship, was elected in Cook county. She is a republican and led the ticket. The republicans elected eleven and the democrats nine judges of the superior court.

The New Jersey legislature remained in the republican column, notwithstanding the vigorous campaign waged by Governor Silzer, democrat, for a democratic lawmaking body. American party candidates, who waged a fight in Utah under the slogan, "Separation of Church and State," were beaten. Mayor Rolph, republican, of San Francisco, apparently was reelected. The results of the senatorial and congressional elections will leave the two houses of congress with this lineup:
Republicans, 225; democrats, 204; socialists, 1; independent, 1; farmer-labor, 1; vacancies, 3.
Republican majority 18.
The republican majority in the senate will remain at six.

republican candidate for governor had a majority of 40,000.
Both national and local issues figured in the Maryland election and the big increase in the democratic majority and the triumphant election of the whole ticket in the state and the city ticket in Baltimore show the growth of democratic sentiment typical of the country at large and confirms all previous evidence that the country is democratic where the race is between major candidates.

"The desertion of republican voters is confirmed also by the reduction of the republican majority in Vermont by approximately 10,000 compared with the senatorial election of 1922. The only item of uncertainty is of the result of the 24th congressional district of New York normally a strong republican district, but which was wrested from that party in 1922 in the democratic congressional landslide."

"Together, the results of Tuesday's election are a cause both for gratification and jubilation by democrats and confirm the certainty of a democratic national victory in 1924."

CHIEF JETT BY LIEUTENANT
Lieutenant W. A. Chewning, of the city detective department, was exonerated by a special meeting of the police committee Wednesday night of charges growing out of an alleged plot to loot mail machines seized in raids by the police department, which was reported to Chief Jett by Lieutenant T. B. Shaw.

The committee ruled that Lieutenant Chewning had approached Lieutenant Shaw only in a jesting way and expressed the opinion that he had not seriously offered a plan to loot the machines. Lieutenant Shaw told the committee that he would have acted in an "open-faced manner."

Lieutenant Chewning declared that Lieutenant Chewning called him away from his books and introduced his plan, saying that they would go "fifty-fifty" on the proceeds.
"I told him I wouldn't do a thing like that with my own brother," Lieutenant Shaw stated.
After examining several witnesses the committee adjourned, exonerating Lieutenant Chewning and awarding him pay for four days of his suspension which grew out of the charges by Lieutenant Shaw.

To office boys and bank presidents

The boy at the outer gate needs Eversharp and Wahl Pen. He can afford Eversharp at $1. He can buy the all-metal Wahl Pen as low as $4. Or in rubber at $2.60 up.

The bank president in his private office also needs America's favorite writing tools. He will probably buy a costlier set, matched in sterling or in solid gold.

The point is, Eversharp and Wahl Pen service which is needed by all is available to all.

Be sure you get Eversharp. Its features can't be copied. Eversharp alone has the exclusive rifled tip that prevents lead wobbling. It also has the automatic index that shows how much lead is in the barrel. And under the cap is the eraser and magnifying glass of new leads. Carry two Eversharps—one with black lead, one with colored lead.

Get the all-metal Wahl Pen, too! It cannot break. It will wear a lifetime. And it holds more ink.

Eversharp and Wahl Pen are priced up to $10 each. Solid gold at higher prices. Buy both. Look for the name on each. Ask to see the Wahl rubber pens, too! $2.50 up.

Inexpensive Method of Reducing Dangerous Swollen Veins at Home

Doctor's Recent Discovery. Also Heals Ulcers, Boils, Carbuncles, Abscesses and Open Sores in a Few Days.

The world progresses. Today all that took weeks to cure can now be cured in a few days. If you have swollen veins or bunches you can today bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise, you can prevent them from coming back.

Moone's Emerald Oil besides being one of the most powerful of antiseptics capable of destroying the most pernicious germs and the poisons caused by them, is also a marvelous healing agent.

One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications causes the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barbers' itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, wens or goiters, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, boils, abscesses or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Jacob's Pharmacy Co. or any pharmacy can supply you. (Adv.)

FAGAN ROBBERY REMAINS MYSTERY

County police authorities were continuing their investigation Wednesday night into the mysterious robbery of a Santa Fe train. The train was carrying a large number of passengers, including a woman who was later found to be the victim of the robbery. The robbery occurred on the Santa Fe line near the town of Fagan. The woman, who was later found to be the victim of the robbery, was carrying a large sum of money. The robbery occurred on the Santa Fe line near the town of Fagan. Macon, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Thirteen true bills were returned today by the Bibb county grand jury. Three young white men, charged recently with a number of burglaries, were indicted on charges of receiving stolen goods. They are Bartow Posey, J. W. Palmer and Adolph Griffin. Most of the other indictments were against negroes, or for minor offenses.

Girl Scouts Movement Originated in Atlanta

Few people realize that the Girl Scout movement originated in Georgia. Perhaps that is why the organization has had such success in Georgia and particularly in Atlanta. Since its origin, the movement has spread until it now is represented in practically all sections of the country; and from small beginnings in 1911, when the Atlanta Girl Scout council was created, the organization has grown in this city until now it includes 40 troops with nearly a thousand members; includes also an executive office with a director in charge, and typifies, through the uniform of the Girl Scout, the vigorous, healthy, outdoor living, home-loving girl of Atlanta.

YEA, YEA, AND NAY, NAY:
Let your communication be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay; for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil.—Matthew 5:37.

DO IT NOW!

The report of the tax commission appointed by Governor Walker, published elsewhere, will be formally submitted to the assembly today with the endorsement of the governor.

The mass of information gathered by the commission in its studies of the systems in other states, and of economic conditions applying in Georgia generally, will be submitted later.

The commission's report is concise, direct and specific. It is signed by all the members, and represents the coordinated investigations and labors of as able a body of men, from business and the industries, including agriculture, as could have been assembled in the state.

The members at their own expense made exhaustive studies, visited various points and sections, and their conclusions are drawn, not only from what they believe from these investigations to be the best interest of Georgia, and all of her people, but necessary in properly maintaining the state's institutions and in keeping Georgia abreast of her sister states.

The extra session of the assembly to deal specifically with the taxation problem was deemed necessary by the governor, in view of the failure of the regular session in the summer to meet the situation, and in view of the usual policies of legislatures in regular sessions, where the calendars are congested, and legislative and political jockeying too often obstructs constructive measures, to cope with fundamental tax revisions in a satisfactory manner.

That Georgia is up against a situation that demands immediate action there is no doubt. The instability of the tax situation is hurting business, retarding progress, shutting out the importation of capital, and the proper development of the state's resources. Georgia is so sorely in need of a stabilization of taxes that the question of definiteness is no less important than that of the specific system or plan to be adopted.

The obligation of the extra session of the assembly is to solve this problem and solve it now.

It should be met in a broad, unselfish spirit of usefulness, and policies should in no way enter into the matter. This is one time when the welfare of Georgia is the issue and not the individual aspirations of any man or group or faction.

The legislature is on trial before the people of the state. The members are fully capable, under the force of concentrated thought, to submit to the people a tax revision that shall be so uniformly fair, and so simple and comprehensive, that the people will overwhelmingly ratify the proposed amendments.

We feel sure the legislature will meet its obligations to the people in this broad spirit of service, and meet it now.

THE PROTEST GROWING.

The rumblings of protest against the issuance of cotton condition reports by the department of agriculture are fast assuming proportions that will inevitably lead to a concerted effort on the part of the cotton trade to have these reports discontinued. From many parts of the south are coming words of protest. The head of the National Ginners' association has made charges which, though a bit radical, have caused a great deal of comment, and the department of agriculture has asked for evidence and proof of irregularity. A big cotton firm of New Orleans which has been carrying on a fight for a change in the methods of obtaining the report has become even more active recently. The issuance of these reports is undoubtedly hazardous to the trade. The speculative estimate that the government releases early in the year before the cotton even begins to show out of the ground is the greatest of all the evils of the system.

As an example of the method used by the government to obtain this first estimate—the farmer is approached by a crop reporter of the department of agriculture and is asked to tell how much acreage he will plant. These are the figures that are used, despite the fact that a considerable part of this acreage may be abandoned, and again the farmer may decide not to plant as much cotton as he told the department agent.

The charge of J. A. Taylor, made recently, in which he expressed the opinion that indications pointed to someone on the inside trading in the market, probably is far fetched; still it has been the means of stirring the cotton trade to the realization that issuance of cotton condition reports is wrong. The Constitution published the charge of Mr. Taylor, and its efforts in the matter have brought appreciation from A. C. Beane, head of the firm of Fenner & Beane, cotton brokers, which firm is the one mentioned above as making a strong fight against the cotton condition report.

The letter from Mr. Beane is published elsewhere on this page.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

An impartial analysis of Tuesday's scattering off-year elections shows three unimpaired and well-defined trends in popular thought—

First, that toward democratic solidarity in the south.

Second, a growing dissatisfaction with the party in power.

Third, a growing opposition in rural sections toward the increasing of bonded indebtedness.

That the south is solidly democratic again, including the border states, as are Kentucky and Maryland, is not surprising to students of political thought who have watched the reactions from the break-aways of 1920. It will be recalled that in Tennessee, Kentucky, Maryland and Virginia the republicans made strong gains in the landslide that swept Harding into the presidency. In Kentucky and Tennessee the balance of power swung to the republicans.

In 1922 Tennessee democrats regained their lost ground with greater than normal majorities, and the Kentucky election Tuesday illustrates that the democrats have captured that state again with their old-time, pre-war strength.

And the same story comes out of Maryland, where the democrats not only reelected Governor Ritchie but made substantial gains in the state house and senate.

In the congressional elections in New York and Illinois, caused by deaths, no changes were made in party results, the democrats holding all of their seats by increased majorities. It is not significant that republicans gained in New York state five seats in the state assembly.

That these results indicate a growing dissatisfaction with the administration in power is the one conclusion that any student of the psychology of politics must admit.

In the elections immediately preceding a national campaign year the administration in power, of whatever party faith, is necessarily on trial. The party machinery of such an administration is put into its strongest action by reason of that fact. The vote of the people is therefore necessarily indicative of the trend of satisfaction or dissatisfaction, and in Tuesday's elections it is obvious that the trend is away from the republicans.

The third conclusion, that of opposition to assuming larger bonded indebtedness on the part of rural voters, is evidenced by the overwhelming defeat of the $50,000,000 highway proposal in Virginia.

Virginia is one of the most progressive states in the south. The leading agricultural commodity, except its pasturage and live stock industries, is tobacco, and the prices this year have ruled good. The people are fairly prosperous, and the prosperity is more uniformly distributed than in many other of the agricultural states.

The reason is undoubtedly a general tendency toward retrenchment, in meeting and coping with new enforced economic conditions.

That the sixty-eighth congress, which will convene in regular session in one month, will have the party lines closely drawn is another evidence of the rapid democratic gains since 1920. In the last congress the republicans had a majority of twenty-two in the senate. In the approaching congress it will have a majority of only six.

In the house, two to one republican following the cataclysm of 1920, but materially reduced in 1922, the republican majority will not exceed twenty. In both houses an insurgent group in the republican ranks hold the balance of power.

It looks as if the tide and wind are favorable for democratic victory in 1924.

City people often speak of the advantages that fall to the lot of the dwellers in rural communities, and tell with pride of parks, theaters, boulevards and attractions that they, who live in the city, can enjoy at any time. But after all is said, the fact remains that many people from the country towns know more about the different points of interest in the city than those who live there.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Every race is from scratch. That is, from an equal footing. The loser must take his chance for success another time.

But in time that loser will be the winner.

It is the good sport who smiles and says he will take that other chance, until he wins.

Each day we start another race, another life. But even with this assurance, many of us carry over the records of our former defeats and discouragements in the new day.

What a world of men and women this would be if we could all start afresh each day!

It isn't an easy thing to obliterate the past, but the power of the scars of our mistakes and misdeeds, but it is entirely possible for us to start afresh each day.

BILLS IN SENATE

The following bills were introduced in the senate Wednesday:

By Pace, of the Thirteenth—A bill to create a department of auditing which would supervise expenditures of funds and check various departments of the state.

By Lankford, of the Fifteenth—A bill to establish an income tax.

By Davis, of the Forty-second—A bill to regulate the return and assessment of property for taxation by re-evaluing the tax valuation law.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. WINTYRE

Thousands of Dollars.

New York, November 7.—One of the greatest American playwrights told me the other day he would never write a play that would cost more than one that is frequently heard—that producers do not play a fair game.

He says the man who holds his art above everything else has a chance in the devious customs that producers employ. In all his experience, he never produced a play that was not a success. There were two producers who kept him waiting for a few days. He demanded his script. He found it had not been opened.

Seven months ago he left a play with a certain producer. When he returned to see what had happened to it, he was asked by a police secretary to wait for a few days. He demanded his script. He found it had not been opened.

The loss in this particular instance was heavy, for another playwright had embodied the big game for a play and it was within the past week been launched as a success. There was no plagiarism, he says, but had he had a chance to market it before the other fellow.

Playwrights have found that when they write first a play with a big name, they are unable to produce it at the moment they resort to promises. They are cagey and put nothing on paper, but when they have the highest bidder, their idea is, if they cannot produce it themselves, to keep the other fellow from doing so. But they have not signed any papers.

There is a playwright from the middle west who had a play that was produced successfully. He was asked to write another play, just the same, and he checked for $17,500. At his bank he discovered it was dated a month ahead. Under the New York statute, which dated this year, it is merely an acknowledgment of indebtedness. It is not binding.

The state man went to the producer, was told a hard luck story and accepted $14,000 in cash. Afterward he learned this was common custom to trim the novice out of a few thousands of dollars. Older playwrights will not discuss terms with managers. They hire expert legal brains. The same playwright tells me movie magnates are, after many years of gyping writers, now offering the best opportunities.

My mood seems to be unpleasant today. I have been making the rounds of the New York dog shops. I have found only three proprietors who are really worthy of having such faithful charges. The places are dirty, the dogs are kept in uncomfortable cages and nearly all are frequently visited by that devastating scourge of the kennels—distemper. I heard by Karl Kautsky, of the old bright little Boston bull, six months old, was sent to a kennel to have his ears cropped. I saw the pup the day after—suffering from the uncomfortable braces clamped on the dog's ears. It was kept in a cage not big enough to turn around in. Two days later it went down with distemper and the next day it died. A little proper care and sympathy would have avoided this kind of government really not dog lovers. Neither do they own the dogs. Their places are merely auction blocks where the dogs are sold. He ought to let the Germans decide what form of administration they prefer.

Two of the oldest houses in New York face Battery Park on State Street. The State street is a frame building which around just the same as it did in 1625 when the tiny Dutch vessels came sailing into the harbor. The house was built by a Dutchman, who lived there for nearly 300 years. The old dwellings were the nucleus of the village of New Amsterdam. In 1600 the Dutch government bought the land and made it a town. It was given over chiefly to steamship offices. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

Life is cheap in some parts of China. Father George M. Stenz, Catholic educator and missionary, comes back from Tsauku, where he says he saw on several occasions during the last year, a man who was killed by a sword and lance. "I do not know how many thousands have been put out of the way in these conflicts and descend on the next town for revenge. A single mandarin could boast that within two years he had slain 5,000 people. Whole towns have been burned and once in a while a government army comes to the district and burns and pillages with the cruelty of savages. When they go away the old feuds spring up again."

Canada and The Empire.

When Mr. Lloyd George told members of the Canadian club at Quebec that their first patriotism was toward their city, their next to their province, their next to the dominion and their next to the empire, he touched the heart of the Canadian people. The empire place the empire first. They always raise the cry of annexation to the United States. They want to defeat their opponents, the liberals. The liberals are for closer connections with the United States and for complete autonomy within the British empire. In addition to that there is a strong party of French Canadian who love for Britain. They are the descendants of the companions of the great explorer, their leader is the Hon. J. A. B. Human Fragments.

People are living from ten to fifteen years longer than half a century ago, according to evidence submitted at a recent medical convention in Chicago. The reason is people are learning to take care of their bodies. Some of the exhibits at the convention included a man who had seventy-eight feet of piano wire wrapped around his body. This wire protects his heart and the great arteries around it. They had become flabby and threatened to burst. Since the wire was wrapped around his body, he was protected from the several other exhibits of "human carapace." Torn tendons replaced with silk, bones screwed together, metal plates, new eye brows and new noses.

REV. BINNS TO SPEAK AT AMERICUS NOV. 11

Americus, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—Rev. Walter Pope Binns, of Moultrie, has accepted an invitation tendered him by John D. Mathis post, American Legion, to deliver an address here on the looking after the Armistice day celebration. Dr. Binns, who is a native of Louisiana, Ky., formerly resided in Atlanta, and only recently accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Moultrie. In connection with the address to be delivered by Dr. Binns, a committee of legion members is now busy forming plans for the generating and observing Armistice day. It is hoped to bring several hundred ex-service men to Americus for the occasion. The plan includes the participation of every resident of the community whether ex-service man or not.

PREPARE IN THOMAS FOR RED CROSS CALL

Thomasville, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—The Red Cross roll call will be started in Thomasville Saturday, and an effort will be made to secure a thousand or more members. Practically every section of the county has promised to take up the work. Paul C. Searcy, chairman of the campaign, with D. Boy Hay and T. J. Mitchell, of the committee, have visited every section of the county and made arrangements for committees to take up the work in all the towns of the county. Thomasville and this county have always been the place of the Red Cross and the chapter house has been a very active one. A health and county fair is being recently appointed.

Flaxseed or Linseed.

Some one asked you about flaxseed or linseed for constipation. Which is it? (Mrs. C. B. J.)

Answer—They are the same thing. From a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful of the unground seeds may be washed down with water, once or twice daily. This accomplishes satisfactorily the purpose for which expensive preparations like agar are much used nowadays—natural stimulation of peristalsis (wave movements in the alimentary tube).

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Reds Fear Home Conditions.

All the talk that Leon Trotsky is sending into the world about going to the support of communists in Germany is intended for home consumption. He is busy bolstering up the cause in Russia. He just sees up a stick man and then proceeds to knock him down. Whatever revolutionary forces there are in Germany are the most revolutionary of them are being crushed by the German government. He ought to let the Germans decide what form of administration they prefer.

Science Goes On.

Professor Schuster, of Dantzic, has perfected a photographic camera which will record the flashes of a nerve. Avoid draughts. If they are kept in a cool, small, draughty room, the exercise. Clean hair is much better than straw for beds. Feed them raw meat and vegetables, boiled rice, ripe fruit, etc. A little amber seed, wheat each day, and occasionally a little cooked meat is advisable. Produce a little more of all times, and avoid over-feeding them.

A Dictator Wanted.

Life is cheap in some parts of China. Father George M. Stenz, Catholic educator and missionary, comes back from Tsauku, where he says he saw on several occasions during the last year, a man who was killed by a sword and lance. "I do not know how many thousands have been put out of the way in these conflicts and descend on the next town for revenge. A single mandarin could boast that within two years he had slain 5,000 people. Whole towns have been burned and once in a while a government army comes to the district and burns and pillages with the cruelty of savages. When they go away the old feuds spring up again."

Canada and The Empire.

When Mr. Lloyd George told members of the Canadian club at Quebec that their first patriotism was toward their city, their next to their province, their next to the dominion and their next to the empire, he touched the heart of the Canadian people. The empire place the empire first. They always raise the cry of annexation to the United States. They want to defeat their opponents, the liberals. The liberals are for closer connections with the United States and for complete autonomy within the British empire. In addition to that there is a strong party of French Canadian who love for Britain. They are the descendants of the companions of the great explorer, their leader is the Hon. J. A. B. Q.—How far apart should southern pine seedlings be spaced?

A.—According to Science Service, the spacing of 8 feet each way is perhaps the best for loblolly or slash pines, and 6 feet for shortleaf. This will require about 700 and 1,200 trees per acre, respectively.

Q.—What and where is San Souci?

A.—An old royal palace in the vicinity of Potsdam, Prussia, built by Frederick the Great, between the years 1745 and 1747, and afterwards his favorite residence. The name said to have been suggested by Frederick I, who had selected the spot for the burial place for his favorite horse, Conde, and his dogs, and had a grave dug for himself at the same spot. "That is where I shall lie after death," he said. "I am here, I am here I am there I shall rest without care." (Saus-Souci.)

Q.—How should ring-tailed monkeys be cared for?

A.—Provide as much light and fresh air as possible. They will require heated quarters in winter. Avoid draughts. If they are kept in a cool, small, draughty room, the exercise. Clean hair is much better than straw for beds. Feed them raw meat and vegetables, boiled rice, ripe fruit, etc. A little amber seed, wheat each day, and occasionally a little cooked meat is advisable. YELLOW JACKIE SWORKING OUT IN WASHINGTON TODAY

On Their Way to Struggle With Penn State's Warriors; Thirty Players Making Jaunt

Arrive at Nation's Capital at 12:35 Today. Will Work Out on Walter Johnson's Stamping Grounds.

BY PAUL WARWICK.

Just about the time you poured the last consignment of syrup on the morning flapjacks, the football team of Georgia Tech was rolling merrily up the railroad; just about the time you sit down to decide whether barbecued lamb or pigs' knuckles will most befit the luncheon palate, the gang will be munching something substantial and nutritious in the Washington, D. C., terminal restaurant.

They're on their way to meet Penn State, as you may have guessed if you are especially subtle, and they stop off in Washington long enough to work good and out. They get there at 12:35 this very day, having left here thirty strong, very strong, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock with their luggage, coaches and firm intentions. In the nation's capital they will pay very little attention to blocs, candidates and plum-pluckers, but will devote their attention to seeing how well the atmosphere at the American league park unlimbers limbs that are train-kinked.

It ought to work well, considering what it has done for Walter Johnson's pitching arm these many years.

Team Is Confident.

As is usual with this fine crew of husky boys that Aleck has under his gifted tutelage this season, the team, to a man, is confident of victory. The spirit of that bunch is the sort of stuff you read about. While the same throng was trekking up to Notre Dame it was greatly in evidence. Coach Aleck, Coach Wood, and the newspaper men and others who were making the jaunt were none too sure of the outcome—but there was not a player in all that special carload who would not have bristled and growled if one had intimated that Tech would not mangle the Mickies.

And that fighting spirit which made them believe was the spirit that made them show the Indians a class of pluck that rarely viewed in any community, not even in devastated France.

And Harry Wilson and Bedenk, the euphonious all-American guard, have no more terrors for them, in fact, much fewer, than had Knute Rockne, Miller and the rest of the Scotch Bend buckaroos.

In Good Condition.

Considering the fact that six titanic struggles have already been indulged in by the Tornado thus far this season—the squad is in good condition. A lancehead which is the portion of Pinky Hunt is the only disaster present, and there still burns a ray of chance that he will get into the game, despite the fact that he depends on crutches at present to aid his locomotion.

Gardner is expected to start this game at the end opposite John. Gardner and even in the event that Gardner can not along his capable carcass into the fray, Monk Nabele is in prime shape and is ready again to make up with zip and fire what he lacks in tonnage. The rest of the crew stacks up well. Bob Reeves' dundered paw is now out of its cast and ready to finger the pigskin, and the other injuries are healing themselves in various parts of the squad which makes the trip. They should meet the Nittany lions in good enough repair to do considerable damage if Wilson, et al., are not quite particular.

Those who made the jaunt are: Frye, Fleetwood and Poole, centers; McConnell, McIntyre, Hall and Fair guards; Merkle, Gray, Carpenter, Huffins and Werner, tackle; Gardner, Nabele, Statan and King, ends; Davis, Godwin, Carter and Hunt, quarterbacks; Reeves and Wyoff, fullbacks; Harris, Albright, Williams, Bob Reeves, Fred Moore and Farnsworth, halfbacks. Coach Alexander will have ample substitutes on this trip and will no doubt use them all.

Penn. Quarter Is Out of Season

Philadelphia, November 7.—Jack Dorn, quarterback of the University of Pennsylvania football team, will not be able to play again this season, because of blood poisoning in the left leg. Dr. E. N. Elison, of the University hospital, declared today. The poisoning was not the result of any football injury, it was said.

The loss of Dorn broke up a carefully developed backfield combination. Coach Lou Young, lacking a capable signal caller, removed Dorn from center, where he formerly played, to the quarterback position.

Little Lessons In Big Sports

USUAL DEFENSE FORMATION

BOX FORMATION FOR DEFENSE

USE INSIDE OWN 40-YD. LINE

When should a box formation be used by the backfield on defense?

Answered by ANDY SMITH, Coach of the University of California; his teams undefeated during three years past. Former All-American fullback.

The box formation defense should be used whenever there is little likelihood of a quick kick being used by the offensive team. That would mean that the box formation should be used from a team's own 40-yard line to their goal line. Should the offensive team use a quick kick in this territory, it would only roll over the goal line for a touchback; therefore, it is good strategy to use the extra back in reinforcing the line.

QUANTICO MARINES TO PLAY MICHIGAN

Quantico, Va., November 7.—Secretary Denby urged the Quantico Marines football team to victory over the University of Michigan, his alma mater, in their game to be played at Ann Arbor Saturday, at a send-off meeting today of the marines stationed here.

The first detachment of coaches and players will leave here tomorrow morning by airplane. The remainder of the team will travel in a special car, leaving tomorrow night. They will be followed by 1,500 marines accompanied by Secretary Denby.

LUIS FIRPO COMING BACK

Plans for Return Match With Dempsey Around Labor Day.

New York, November 7.—Luis Angel Firpo will return to the United States next spring for a series of about 12 fights in various parts of this country and Canada, leading up to a return match with Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight title, which probably will take place in New York around Labor day.

This announcement was made tonight by William McCann, who with his partner, Hugh Gartland, will conduct Firpo's tour.

Firpo is expected to return to his country in April and start boxing early in May.

DUNDEE MAPPING OUT BUSY PROGRAM.

New York, November 7.—Eleven bouts in ten weeks is the busy program, outlined for Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion, by his manager, James J. Johnston.

The series, which begins at Frontenac, Kan., November 15, when Dundee meets Jimmie Bonner, will take the champion through the middleweight and south Atlantic states and will end in Portland, Ore., January 21.

In addition to Bonner, Dundee's list of opponents includes Joey Fox, Harry Mendelsohn, Joey Sanger, Joe Gorman, Bobby Harper, and other less formidable boppers.

LEONARD MAY MEET MICKEY WALKER SOON.

St. Louis, November 7.—Benney Leonard, light-weight champion, announced here today arrangements were being made for a bout between Mickey Walker, welter-weight champion, and himself. The bout probably will be next summer at a location not decided on, added Leonard.

BRITTON TO ATTEMPT COMEBACK SOON.

New York, November 7.—Jack Britton, the venerable insomniac, will have his whiskers done up in a psyche knot and go to Boston on November 20 to re-enter the ring after losing his title to Mickey Walker. Britton will box Frankie Schooler ten rounds to a decision.

Britton is unable to sleep. Therefore instead of counting sheep in bed in an effort to woe slumber to his old eyes, he will count the customers in various fight clubs until some youth happens along who can put him to sleep by violence. It is 18 years since Jack had his first fight.

NEARING SOLUTION OF CHURCH MURDER

Tuscaloosa, Ala., November 7.—Authorities here today believed they were near a solution of the murder case that has surrounded the discovery of the body of a young woman in the ashes of a negro church which was burned four miles from here last Wednesday morning.

A few "missing men" are yet to be gathered up, it was stated. The inquiry late today centered in an attempt to learn the identity of a woman who Policeman Mose D. Ashley of the local force said was in company with Alf Winchester when the latter alighted from a train here early last Wednesday morning.

Winchester, who is held in the county jail, has denied knowledge of the case, although admitting to officers that he was a passenger on the train mentioned by the policeman. Policeman Ashley told officers and newspapermen that Winchester and the woman drove from the station in Winchester's car after leaving the train.

Birmingham authorities were said to be following clues which had led them to believe the victim was a Birmingham or Bessemer girl.

Mose D. Ashley, member of the Tuscaloosa force, today told authorities and newspapermen that he was at the local railroad station last Wednesday morning when the 1 o'clock limit train arrived, and that he saw Alf T. Winchester alight from the train in company with a young woman, both of whom left the station in Winchester's automobile.

Winchester carried a small suitcase or satchel, Ashley said, and the two first went into the waiting room for a few minutes, then coming out and driving toward town in the car.

"I am not sure how long they were in the station, nor whether the woman sat for a few moments, but I am certain that both of them left the station in Winchester's automobile."

PROGRESS REPORTED IN SOCIAL HYGIENE

St. Louis, Mo., November 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Through the introduction of voluntary health examination and treatment for sex diseases among employees, leaders of industry are on the threshold of an important step in helping combat these evils, Bernard C. Roloff, executive secretary of the Illinois Social Hygiene League, predicted in a address here today at the closing session of the National Social Hygiene conference.

A nation-wide survey disclosed that the toll on industry of classes taken by the incidence of sex vice is too significant an item to be longer ignored, Mr. Roloff said. The speaker cited the case of an eastern railroad in a single year disease among 35 employees cost the company $50,000. Contrary to the general belief, workers readily cooperate in a plan of voluntary treatment, he said.

Reports of progress from social hygiene secretaries of various cities were heard during a symposium on community work. Edgar F. Van Buskirk, of Cincinnati, reported a new step in advance by the organization there, when, with the indorsement of parents and teachers the society sponsored sex lessons in the upper grades of 25 schools of the city. Development of public opinion is taking place through public lectures, he said.

New York city school budget for 1924 provides $1,000,000 for fire prevention work.

GET YOUR MAN!

THERE'S A KICK IN HIS RIGHT

"Get Your Man!"

"Get Your Man" is the slogan of the Canadian Royal Mounted police, and now along comes a heavy-weight boxer who was a member of that organization and applies its motto to his business of prize-fighting! Among the possible contenders for the heavyweight crown that adorns the curly head of our own Jack Dempsey is another Jack, Renault by name, who is the heavyweight champion of Canada.

This Jack, who is as husky, as heavy, and as handsome as the conqueror of Georges Louis, is probably the next victim to be played up at the colorful challenge to be the second half of another million dollar party. For Jack Renault has color—lots of it. Doesn't "ex-gerent" of the Canadian Mounted" sound alluring? Maybe he'd even wear his red jacket when he fights the champ! Jack Renault has ability, too—for he has won eleven of his recent fights by knockouts, and among his opponents were George Godfrey, who is considered by many as a better man than Harry Wills, Tiny Herman, Fred Fulton, the well-known Canvas Plasterer, and Joe Downey, who went 10 rounds with Luis Firpo. Renault is 26 years old, and packs a mean wallop in both hands.

Leo Flynn manages this Canadian Cannonball, and according to Leo, Renault will continue to "Get His Man," no matter if that man is none other than the "Manassa Mauler."

Many Coaches Making Study Of Blocking Punts--Camp

BY WALTER CAMP
(Copyright, 1923, For The Constitution)
Special Leased Wire to The Constitution.

New York, November 7.—Look out from now for the scientific punt blocker.

It has not yet dawned upon the general public that there are certain tacticians who have made a study of blocking punts, and that the results of this study are likely to be of great importance. Indeed the new departure already is reaping its reward.

The punter who has been in the habit of feeling fairly safe with his protection, suddenly finds a loose cannon coming through somewhere, and right down his alley. There is the terrible sound of the ball striking a man and then a mad scramble after it, with more than an even chance that the side which has blocked the punt gets a touchdown.

Stanford lost her game to Southern California out on the Pacific coast owing to Southern California's ability to block punts, and there have been a number of like casualties.

Another thing which may be looked for in the late season games is earlier loosening up by the big teams on open play. There seems no valid reason for holding off so long with the attack that is usually needed to win. One thing the coaches will have to do though if they are to get their fair reward for their plays is to put something on the hands of the backfield men that will enable them to hold the ball better.

There have been some strange gridiron finishes this season, but perhaps one of the most remarkable occurred in Tucson, Arizona, when the University of Arizona met St. Mary's, of Oakland, Arizona scored 20 points to St. Mary's 2 in the first three quarters. Then St. Mary's started an aerial attack which resulted in three touchdowns and a 22 to 20 victory.

Gonoza with her remarkable forward passer, Houston Stockton, played havoc with Montana when the two met, making some twenty passes, twelve of which were successful for a gain of 161 yards. It will be remembered that this is the team that gave West Virginia such a tough time at San Diego last Christmas day. Already they have beaten Washington State 27 to 14. Notre Dame adherents will be glad to know that their old player, Dorais, is Gonoza's coach.

The Rules of Sport

make a forward pass to one of his backs. One of the ends of the kicking team catches the ball instead and runs for a touchdown. Referee would not allow this score of ours, claiming that the forward pass was illegal. Was his ruling right?

A.—The rules clearly state that the team offended against in the particular play you mention may decline the penalty against the other team. Therefore, the touchdown is allowed. Rule 17, Sec. 2.

Q.—Football. Fullback of team A kicking from behind his goal line, kicks ball into one of his backs, also behind the goal line. Ball bounces up field and is recovered by team A's 30-yard line by team B. Team B claims a safety on grounds that player hit by ball kicked by his teammate was offside.

A.—Rule 18, Sec. 1, states that no player can be offside behind his own goal line. In play mentioned it is team B's ball, first down, 10 to go, on team A's 30-yard line.

Q.—Swimming. Must a contestant in back stroke competition touch with both hands at the turn?

A.—No. That rule was in effect until last year, but now one needs to touch with one hand only.

Mail your questions on the rules of any sport to Editor, THE RULES OF SPORT. The correct answer will appear in this column.

A Tip for the Game—Swimming. L. DeB. Handley says: It is not advisable to hook the hands by bending them at the wrists in starting the arm drive of the crawl. This action is a waste of energy. The swimmer obtains better advantage at the catch and throughout the drive by holding forearm and hand virtually straight.

DIES IN BATH TUB OF GAS FROM HEATER

New York, November 7.—Henry B. Van Emden, an official of the Vito Medical company, was found dead last night in a bath tub in his apartment here. The bathroom was filled with gas from a leaking heater. The medical examiner said death was accidental.

Mr. Van Emden had planned to sail for Cadiz, who has his wife and daughter, the latter an opera singer. His luggage had been packed, and an unsealed letter to his wife, announcing his sailing and informing her he would visit England before going to Holland, was found in his effects.

An investigation showed that Mr. Van Emden had leaned from his tub and turned off the gas at the stove, but that it still flowed from the wall jet and leaked through the tubing.

Besides his wife and daughter in Holland, he leaves a daughter in New York, and a son, H. B. Van Emden, of Wichita Falls, Texas. He was 60 years old.

TIGERS SET TO FIGHT TULANE

Green Has Met Strong Teams and Should Give Auburn Trouble.

Auburn, Ala., November 7.—(Special.)—When the Auburn Tigers meet the Green Wave of Tulane university in their seventh game of the 1923 season, Saturday afternoon at Cranton Bowl, Montgomery, Ala., the Greens will get underway on the sixth number of their present campaign. The principals of the week-end Cranton Bowl classic have not played a common foe for this season, and comparison of the strength of the two eleven can be arrived at by comparing scores at this angle.

From the present season's results Auburn has won three games, tied one and lost two, while the Crescent City Green Wave eleven has lost three games and won two. Auburn has counted 90 points while opponents have totaled 35. The Louisiana eleven has a total score of 40 points while their adversaries have accumulated 67 points. This showing by the bayou state eleven does not detract from their strength in the least when the trio of worth opponents were reversals were recorded is considered.

Played Strong Teams.

In the games with such teams as the University of Texas, Tennessee and Vanderbilt, the metal of any southern team would be given the acid test and should the Plainsmen undertake their Saturday's task with the past scores of the Tulane games as a basis of their efforts they are liable to be the recipients of a little surprise before the final whistle. The results of the games played this season by the contending eleven of Saturday's conflict is as follows:

Auburn 20, Clemson 0; Auburn 20, Birmingham-Southern 0; Auburn 30, Howard College 0; Auburn 9, Army 28; Auburn 34, Fort Benning 0; Auburn 20, University of Georgia 6; totals, Auburn 90, opponents 35.

Tulane 20, Southwestern Institute 0; Tulane 18, Mississippi 3; Tulane 0, University of Texas 33; Tulane 0, Vanderbilt 17; Tulane 2, Tennessee 13 totals, Tulane 40, opponents 67.

BIRKENHEAD PRAISES AMERICA'S GENEROSITY

Glasgow, November 7.—The Earl of Birkenhead, who recently returned from the United States, expressed belief in an address today as lord rector of Glasgow university, that idealism in national affairs might easily degenerate into a deadly source of national peril.

The larger claims made on behalf of the league of nations, he declared, had always seemed to him frankly fantastic, as they not only forgot history but also the attitude of the United States toward the league.

Lord Birkenhead said:

"That people is the most generous people in the field of international character. The United States has lavished countless millions of dollars upon the starving population of Russia, and they were the first in the field with boundless relief for the stricken people."

"But they draw, and rightly draw, a sharp and logical distinction between idealism in their capacity as a community and idealism in their corporate or national character."

CHECK FOR $39,650 GIVEN WAKE FOREST

Wake Forest, N. C., November 7.—(Special.)—Wake Forest college has received a check for $39,650 from the general education board of New York City, which was announced today by Dr. W. L. Mr. Coolidge has emphasized that the 1924 estimates must be kept below the $1,700,000,000 total fixed by President Harding, exclusive of postal expenditures and public debt requirements. Present indications are that he will be successful in his endeavor.

New York Fight Commission May Yet Relent for Youth; Anxious to Meet M. McTigue

Tex Rickard Reports to Commission That He Has Staged 119 Fights for Total Gate of $9,550,566.71.

New York, November 7.—(Special.)—Young Stribling, Georgia light heavyweight, stepped into the offices of the New York state boxing commission this afternoon and applied for a license to engage in bouts of more than six rounds' duration. Stribling is a school boy and registers, according to his own admission, only eighteen years. That fact precludes him participating in bouts of more than six rounds in this state.

In order to fight ten, twelve or fifteen round engagements Young Stribling will have to wait until he is twenty-one years of age, unless this rule should be changed or amended in this state. There seems to be little chance that this alteration of law will be effected.

SPECIAL TRAINS FOR GA.-VA. GAME

The Seaboard Air Line Railway company announced yesterday afternoon that a special rate has been made to Athens and return Saturday in order that Atlanta football fans may see the Georgia-Virginia game conveniently.

The special rate will be $3.35 to Athens and return.

Tickets are good on the train leaving Atlanta at 6:10 a. m., arriving at Athens at 10:40 a. m., also on the train leaving Athens at 11:25 a. m. (Terminal Station) and arriving at Atlanta at 2:42 p. m. The 11:25 train will carry all conveniences and will reach Athens in plenty of time for the game. Tickets returning are good on the train leaving Athens at 6:15 p. m., arriving in Atlanta 8:00 p. m. or any train thereafter.

Tickets for the game can be secured from Harold Hirsch, in the Chandler building, 119th Street, New York, November 11.

BRANCH BANK RULE IS SET BY BOARD

Washington, November 7.—The federal reserve board decided today to inaugurate a new policy with respect to admission of state banks into the federal reserve system. After January 1, 1924, the board will require as a condition of membership that a state bank agree to establish no branches without the board's permission and to relinquish any branches it may have outside of the city in which the parent bank is located.

These two general principles will govern the board's action on all applications for membership by state banks. The policy will be rigidly enforced if the recommendation of a committee of its members is studied the question, are followed.

The committee report suggested in recommending adoption of the policy that it be effectuated in all state and national banks of the system on more even terms of competition. Two United States attorney-generals, it was pointed out, have placed all federal laws forbidding national banks establishing branches outside a general banking business. Many states permit banks under the same laws to maintain branches and the committee hinted that continued spread of branch banking by state institutions would eventually destroy the strength of the reserve system.

In recommending adoption of the new policy the committee declared it was impossible for state and national banks to exist together in the reserve system on the present basis.

PERSONS "STONE DEAF" HEAR THROUGH RADIO

New York, November 7.—By the application of amplified electrical vibratory sound currents, persons rated as "stone deaf" and lacking ear drums, were cured by the officers of the New York institution for instruction of the Deaf and Dumb. The experiments were conducted by David Grimes, radio expert and electrical engineer.

The use of a radio receiving apparatus, requiring no aerial, ground wires or outside connection, was employed in the experiments. Although the regular radio currents were not utilized, the apparatus which a volume of sound could be transmitted and increased without distortion.

No difficulty was experienced in enabling those rated as low as 5 per cent to hear perfectly, according to the report, while several students, rated as "stone deaf" and lacking ear drums, also were able to hear when the volume of sound was increased.

Athens Is Restless For Virginia-Georgia Game

Invites All State Legislators To Be the Honor Guests; Team Driving Hard for Fray

Victory Over Auburn Has Not Been Signal for Let-Up—Rough Spots in Play Being Ironed Out by Drill.

BY WALTER G. COOPER, JR.

Athens, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—The Classic City is preparing itself for the throng that will visit the Georgia-Virginia game here next Saturday and the Bulldog squad is working overtime to get into condition for the fray.

Coach Woodruff is driving his men hard and long every afternoon. Although the Bulldogs dusted Auburn, and that was all that he asked, they were badly off in several departments of play. Whether the weather had anything to do with this or not, the fact is that the squad is paying for it in prolonged drills and scrimmages daily required to get ready for the Virginians.

The local representatives of the Seaboard Air Line railway stated that the proposed plan of bringing the state legislature to Athens for the Virginia game and the homecoming celebrations will be aided in every way by that road. As announced, the university faculty formally extends an invitation to the senators to adjourn for the week-end and visit the university as its guests.

Big Crowd Expected

Whether the law-makers can find time in their busy extra session to take the excursion or not, Atlanta is expected to furnish a big delegation to the great week-end. If the prospects for a crowd are promising enough there will be a special train from Atlanta to Athens and back on the day of the game, according to the Seaboard representative.

Should the legislators decide to accept the invitation to take the holiday they will be shown every hospitality in the Classic City. Plans for entertainment will soon be completed to give the honor guests of the university and Athens a royal welcome. Athens always opens its doors with genuine hospitality and the coming of such distinguished visitors would be received with general enthusiasm.

The Virginia team has many loyal admirers who follow it wherever it goes. A year ago quite a delegation of rooters came all the way from Charlottesville to boost their eleven. There are many alumni of the University of Virginia who now live in this state and they seem never to lose loyalty for their college. In the stands Saturday the Blue and Gold colors will be conspicuous.

The Cross-Country Run

Between the halves of the football game the finish of the cross-country run between Auburn and Georgia will end on the field. The Bulldog speed merchants traveled to Clemson last Saturday and captured first, second and fifth places, although the system of scoring, Clemson was awarded the victory on points, 29 to 28. Five of the red-shirted runners who will start on the 3-mile race are Tate, Griffin, Fant, Ewert and Orr. Of last week's team against Clemson Marks is out of condition and will be unable to enter.

This lengthy race will fill the fifteen minutes between halves with a few thrills. From the grandstand the runners can be seen coming along the road half a mile before the close. They will come around a bend behind the fence and through the gate on the field to the finish line.

All Athens is decorating with Blue and Gold grouped with Red and Black. This is the great week-end of the fall and the whole town will be given over to the visitors. The local merchants are filling their windows with festive and decorating every available spot with the colors of the occasion.

ATLANTA UNIVERSITY GRIDDERS WIN 6 TO 0

BASKETEERS GET UNDER WAY

Athletic Club Five Begins Its Annual Intensive Training.

Basketball practice was officially started Monday night on the Atlanta Athletic club court on Auburn avenue, and practice will be held every night in the week with the exception of Saturday and Sunday, according to announcement.

Coach Bean recently came out with the startling announcement that the Atlanta Athletic club basketball team would play the Kansas City Athletic club two games here during the latter part of December on successive nights—something in basketball that has never been attempted in the south, playing a national championship team on successive nights. It will be also remembered that the Kansas City five won the national championship in 1922, playing under the name of Lowe and Campbell.

According to the plans of Joe Bean, one of the best known and most capable basketball coaches in the south, the Athletic club team will undergo many changes before the season opens. The team for the past several years was built up around veterans but Coach Bean hopes to inject some younger blood into the five during the coming season.

Bunch of Candidates.
At present there are around 35 or 40 candidates working hard each night in an effort to give Atlanta basketball fans a first class team. The youngsters working out at present are not new to Atlanta fandom but new in the role of Atlanta Athletic club players.

Of the old guard, Rufus Bass, Joe Singleton, Rufus Bass, formerly with the "Y" Leaders' team, and several others are certain to be filled by youngsters. Tom Slate, an old prep star, saw service in several games last season, as did M. L. Clifford, a Tech High product.

Cooper, an Agona star; Hooper, formerly with the "Y" Leaders' team; Farrell, another Agona star, and several others are waging a merry battle for the vacant places.

Syracuse Team Making Record

Syracuse, N. Y., November 7.—Syracuse's undefeated football team holds four records in the eastern gridiron world, a review of game statistics is said to reveal.

First—The Orange goal line is still unbreached.
Second—Syracuse's six opponents to the present time, including Penn State, Pittsburgh and Alabama, gained a total of only 10 first downs.

Third—MacBride, Orange fullback, holds the lead in eastern scoring by field goals with four to his credit.
Fourth—Bowman, halfback, is credited with a 100-yard run for a touchdown in Syracuse's line-up against William and Mary. Bowen caught the first kickoff of the game, while standing directly on the Orange goal line and raced the entire distance of the gridiron to score. Foley, Bowman's understudy, ran 97 yards to a touchdown in the same game.

Only three points have been scored by six opponents against Syracuse, while the Orange has amassed 174. The three points were the result of a field goal scored by William and Mary. With Boston university and Colgate remaining as its eastern opponents, Syracuse is expected to complete its unbeaten season with its goal inviolate.

The Orange eleven closed its season November 24 against Nebraska at Lincoln, Neb. Penn State was able to gain only three first downs against Syracuse. Pittsburgh gained four, while Delaware, which played Georgia Tech to a scoreless tie, William and Mary, Springfield and Hobart gained only three among them.

A Tragedy in the Ancient Greek

Man

Once a champion swimmer named Eleutherios Fish loaded himself down with 115 pounds, 9 ounces of gold medals which he had won, and with this array of proud hardware pinned to the chest of his swimming suit, poised himself on the rim of the king's swimming tank to have his picture taken.

The flashlight startled Eleutherios and he did a Joe Beckett into the tank. "Keep your shirt on!" yelled the king, and thus weighted down, Eleutherios was totally and permanently drowned.

In commemoration of the accident, the gods created the institution of goldfish which have a notorious aversion to posing for flashlights.

THE SOUTHERN STAR.

This is the rhyme of Wycoff.
A plunger 'twas good to see;
Fighting as if he were Irish,
Gallant as Robert E. Lee.
Facing the best in football,
Doomed, but erect of soul—
Who that looked on could grudge him
His crossing the Irish goal?

Up here we have stars a-plenty,
And all of them equally bright;
But way down South in Dixie
There's one outstanding light.
So this is the rhyme of Wycoff:
His name goes on Honor's Roll
For his feat supreme of the season—
His crossing the Irish goal.
Notre Dame, Ind. —Arthur Barry.

IT'S QUITE A TRIBUTE.

Unless you know the absolute adoration with which the Micks are held in South Bend, you can not fully appreciate the praise which is heaped on Tech's fullback by the verses above, received from one connected with Notre Dame university. It comes as proof of the declaration made by sport writers after the Tech game there—Wycoff was as much a hero with Notre Dame students as was Don Miller.

PLIGHT OF PRINCETON.

South Bend residents, too, all of them, believe the Notre Dame team unbeatable. "It's no disgrace to get beat by Notre Dame," they would say, "there's no team that can beat them."

And one telephone lineman in the press box waxed conversational about the Princeton game, between halves.

"Those Tech boys out there are fine," he declared.

"Why, the Princeton players said that the only time they saw the ball was before the game when the coach gave it to 'em to blow up."

ROCKNE AN IDEAL LEADER;

A TALK ON SPORTSMANSHIP

No Class or Caste in Notre Dame Football.

Edgren Reminisces on the Old Days.

By ROBERT EDGREN.

Notre Dame is the sensation of eastern gridirons this year. Coach Rockne has turned out a wonderful fighting team that has all the strategy known in football.

Notre Dame's system of developing teams is perfect. Every physically-fit man at Notre Dame is thoroughly tried out and given a chance to make the team. No favorites are played and the son of the biggest man in the United States has no advantage whatever over the boy who is working his way through college. There is no class caste in Notre Dame football.

Long before the actual season of play begins the men are all coached in football action and drilled in the strategy of the game. No player is overlooked. Even when the first eleven are selected the men may make the team later as substitutes or as emergency players.

Probably there is no college in the country where team spirit is stronger than at Notre Dame. Every man at Notre Dame is a member of the team. Every man at Notre Dame is a member of the team.

On returning to Notre Dame after over a year's absence, the writer found that Coach Rockne made a characteristic speech to the students at the great rally for the upcoming season. Instead of saying anything about how the game was won Rockne talked about the fine sportsmanship of the Princeton players and Stanford and how they gave Notre Dame after the game.

Better Spirit.

One of the finest developments of American amateur athletics is the fine spirit of sportsmanship that is becoming so prominent. The days when rival colleges "bated each other" and a big contest came along are past. Athletes aren't taught that their rivals are "muckers," to be beaten by any device, as in the old days.

I remember when Yale had a tradition that all Harvard teams were yellow. And when Yale spoke of Princeton men as roughnecks, and Princeton regarded Yale about the way Washington troops thought of the Hessians, and in the same way, Stanford men fought each other grimly wherever they met.

In a long series of fighting victories Harvard taught Yale the value of saying nothing about the game. Princeton taught Yale the value of saying nothing about the game.

Princeton started Era.

I was on the first athletic team the University of Cornell sent out. I remember well how, before we started, we were told to watch every body, and be prepared for all sorts of tricks. We were a suspicious bunch.

Our first meet was with Princeton, and after we had won from the Tigers with an overwhelming score they took us down to Princeton inn and entertained us royally, and invited us everywhere in the friendliest way, and the Princeton finest college in the world, and from that time on we patterned ourselves after Princeton brought out Princeton coaches, and tried to develop that good old Princeton spirit.

SCRAP RAGES OVER FIGHT JUDGES

Managers of O'Dowd and Silver Unable to Agree So Far.

Contrary to the belief current Tuesday, the American Legion's difficulties are not yet over. Not much. The big problem now facing this organization is in persuading Messrs. Jimmy Mayson, manager of Tim O'Dowd, and Max Abelson, high exalted ruler of the Lew Silver faction, to agree on a referee or judges for next Tuesday night's headliner at the auditorium.

Just now the rival parties are locked in a heated debate as to who will render the decision. Abelson has his particular favorite. So has Mayson.

Much Argument.
About all they have agreed upon thus far is that the verdict will be given by three judges—and each man has nominated a different set of judges. Abelson examination, and vice versa.

It is not improbable that in order to settle the controversy the legion will be forced to agree to a compromise of the managers to select one judge, with the legion itself naming the third.

This is only another indication of the heated rivalry between the two factions, and adds further to the promise of a real, genuine, two-fisted battle when the featherweight main event comes to grips Tuesday night.

Both Are Working.
It is a moral certainty that whoever wins will know he has been in a battle.

O'Dowd is working like the little Trojan that he is to be in perfect trim for the occasion. Tim never logs, anyhow; but this time he is going about his training work in a more thorough, businesslike manner. All of which bodies ill for Silver.

Of course, Lew, too, is leaving no stone unturned in his efforts to strike his rival stride. But Max Abelson's chief concern just now is preventing overconfidence seeping into the Silver camp.

It is a common knowledge that on that particular evening O'Dowd was in no shape to try conclusions with a boy of Silver's unshakable class.

W. & L. Preparing For W. Va. Contest

Lexington, Va., November 6.—With a badly battered and bruised team to work with, the result of the hard clash with Virginia last weekend, Coach DeHart faces the task of whipping together an eleven to send against the powerful West Virginia machine at Charleston next Saturday.

The job is one to worry any coach, and the mentor of the white and blue team must drive his squad at top speed all week to build an offensive punch, and to develop a defense that will halt the smashing attack of the mountaineers.

While no serious injuries resulted from last Saturday's contest, practically every member of the squad is nursing a bruise or sprain of some sort or another, necessitating the use of second and third string players in several places. Captain Cameron, who bore the brunt of the General's attack Saturday, is nursing a bad ankle, while Eilson is suffering from a strained shoulder. It is doubtful if either of these dependables will be able to start the game Saturday against West Virginia.

Local scouts who have seen the Mountaineers in action this season unhesitatingly declare that Morgan-tout outfit is perhaps the most formidable gridiron machine in the east this season, and it will require more than the Generals have yet shown to even make a stand against them.

Mercer Brings Good Team To Scrap With Oglethorpe; Game Should Be Tight Fray

Jim Robertson and Stanley Robinson Have Done Much To Bring Their Squads to The Front in Southern Football.

Mercer and Oglethorpe, both in their football ascendancy, both rapidly butting their way from the "plucky small college" class to realms of southern football that bid fair to place them high in anybody's old ranking, will be the gridiron entree for Atlanta fans this coming Saturday—and right well does Atlanta relish the oncoming dish.

Jim Robertson, coach at Oglethorpe, and Stanley Robinson, tutoring the Mercer Baptists, have achieved remarkable feats in rounding the material given them into shape. While Oglethorpe has had rather a disastrous season, they have not marked time in the matter of development. Mercer's team, too, has steadily grown better and should present the Petrels with stern opposition. It's a match of parts—one which should never be announced with the prelude, "While Tech is away at State College meeting the Nittany Lions."

BY BILL MORROW.

In a desperate attempt to turn in the winning score card Saturday when they crash with their old rival, Mercer, on the gridiron, the Petrels have been working long and scrimmaging hard in an endeavor to master several plays, and also to be in the best fighting shape for their battle with the Baptists. Coaches Robertson and Robinson, after closing the big of formations should be in the best fighting shape for their battle with the Baptists. Coaches Robertson and Robinson, after closing the big of formations should be in the best fighting shape for their battle with the Baptists.

Mercer, besides bringing practically the entire student body and hand, will also have on hand an aerial attack that the Petrels will have to stop before they can hope to account for a win over their old rival. The Baptists in the past have always been a great exponent of their air game and several of their victories have come about by the aid of several flips of the piskin.

Mercer's Air Game.
This season under their new director, Coach Robinson, the Mercer players have worked even harder in perfecting this method of attack and their offense in this line is liable to give the Petrels a lot of trouble. Not that the Baptist threat is a serious one, but they have a quarter of flashy backs that pass up the ends and run the line with considerable kick in either method.

A play-by-play detail of the Tech-Penn State battle will be called out to the spectators watching the mix-up between the Baptists and the Petrels. Scores of other prominent battles will also be given.

With the hope on the coming battle failing to give any satisfactory insight into the battle, the rival forces are working hard and saying little. The Petrels, after the hard work-outs of the past few days will no doubt rest on their oars and this afternoon period in running signals and perfecting their plays.

From Those Who Know

The Constitution acknowledges with sincere appreciation hundreds of messages of congratulation received, upon the Sunday issue of November 4th---The South's Most Complete Newspaper.

Presented below are three of these messages---selected because of the varied sources from which they come and because each of them is from a man who knows what he is talking about.

"A Distinct Asset"

Editor Constitution:--We want to congratulate The Constitution on its Gravure Pictorial Section. It is the most beautiful piece of work that I have seen in many a day. The pictures are well chosen, the advertising exceedingly attractive and the whole is splendidly executed from a mechanical standpoint. Aside from its value to your paper, it is a distinct asset to Atlanta and to Georgia. We want to thank you for your contribution to Art and to the people industrially and commercially for producing this splendid Pictorial Section. With warm personal regards, and the writer's personal congratulations, we are,

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 6, 1923

"A Wonder"

Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.--Last Sunday's Constitution is a wonder. Congratulations. -- A. L. Fowle.

"The South's Most Superb Newspaper"

Editor Constitution:--I have read The Constitution since about the day it began publication and it has grown in favor with me all these years, but your last Sunday's issue was to me the MOST SUPERB Southern newspaper I have ever read, or seen, after more than 60 years' reading. May you live long and prosper--enlightening in your clean and truthful way the homes of God's country--the Sunny Southland.--B. F. Jones, Cartersville, Ga., November 4, 1923.

Mr. R. J. Davidson, of F. J. Cooledge & Sons, probably knows as much about gravure as any man who ever lived in the South, as he manufactured and sold it for years. So much for The Constitution's new gravure pictorial section.

Mr. A. L. Fowle, manager of The Thompson Feature Service of New York, has probably developed and sold more features than any other syndicate man in America. He certainly should know what he is talking about when he pays tribute to the features of The South's Most Complete Newspaper.

And then a letter from Mr. B. F. Jones, of Cartersville---a newspaper reader for more than sixty years---who says last Sunday's Constitution was the most superb issue of any Sunday paper he ever saw.

Grand Council Fire To Honor Miss Gibb at Stone Mountain

The Camp Fire Girls will have a "get-together" Saturday at Stone Mountain in honor of Miss Isabel Gibb, who is the new local executive. Mrs. Frank Mason has invited all friends of Camp Fire to Waco lodge, the venerable home at Stone Mountain.

The feature of the occasion will be a grand council fire on the top of Stone Mountain at noon. All girls and guardians will take the 9:27 car to Stone Mountain and the climb will begin at 10:30 o'clock so as to reach the summit by noon for the council fire. The girls will carry their lunches and cook them on top of the mountain at the fire place.

The descent will be made to the Venable home where the friends will enjoy a taffy apple party. All girls will be home by 5 o'clock.

Miss Florence Heintz, of national headquarters, will close her visit to Atlanta Saturday and will conduct the training class. The members of the training class will give a cooking demonstration.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Easier to Wash.

If the pan is very greasy, heating it slightly before immersing it in soapy water will loosen the grease and cause it to wash more easily.

Red Catsup.

If whole spices are placed in a bag and then put into the catsup, they will flavor the catsup without causing it to lose its clear, bright color.

Prolong the wear.

When household linens wear out in the hemstitched hems, join the linen to the hem with a novelty braid. It doubles the life of the article and looks surprisingly well.

A Saving on Sugar.

When making lemonade, dissolve the sugar in a little hot water and allow it to cool before putting in the lemonade. It will sweeten the drink better and much less sugar will be needed.

Baby's Sacque.

So often the little squares given baby are open down the front and never stay snugly across his chest where he needs it most. If mother will crochet it closed on the wrong side, just leaving enough room to slip it over baby's head, it will remain closed where needed.

—Suppose Nobody Cared!—

Maine has been added to the list of states requiring the reading of the Bible in public schools at "daily or stated intervals."

Part of the Journey—the part that counts in the long run—is the question of luggage. The kind of bags or grips you carry is important. Old, dilapidated bags and suit cases you cannot take along—they give you a "down-and-out" appearance. Our bags and suit cases stand the wear and tear of travel and are wonderful leather values.

Noted Women Will Attend Democratic Meet

The regional conference of democratic women which meets in Atlanta on November 23 for a two days' session will bring here some of the most prominent women in politics in the southeast. In pursuance of a plan to organize the democratic women of the U. S., the territory has been divided into seven regions. Comprising the third region are the states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee and Texas. Representative women from all of these states will attend the conference at Atlanta.

National committeewomen in these states are Mrs. Beverly H. Munford, Richmond, Va.; Miss Mary O. Graham, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. Leroy Springs, Lancaster, S. C.; Mrs. Lois K. Mayes, Pensacola, Fla.; Mrs. James D. Head, Texarkana, Ark.; Mrs. J. E. Friend, New Orleans, La.; Mrs. John D. McNeil, Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Ernest E. Brown, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. J. H. McMillin, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Frank McIntyre, Savannah, Ga.

Mrs. Edgar Alexander has been appointed local chairman. Mrs. William Moore will serve as co-chairman for Mrs. Alexander. Mrs. Alexander represents the fifth congressional district on the state democratic committee, and is well qualified to handle the conference.

The Ansley hotel will be headquarters and all business sessions will be held there.

Among the social affairs to be given during the conference will be a luncheon at the Ansley hotel and a banquet at the Atlanta Woman's club.

Special Dance Will Be Given.

A special dance has been arranged for Saturday evening at Garber hall for the college and younger set. Music will be furnished by Conn's Rainbow orchestra from 9 to 12 o'clock.

The dance will be under the supervision of Roger Malone and Joe Eckford.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, which is a remedy easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It is cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually tried for the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly breaks the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Child-birth

HOW thousands of women, by the simple method of an eminent physician, have avoided unnecessary miseries through man's meddling, is fully explained in the remarkable book "Motherhood and the Baby." Tells also what to do before and after baby comes, probable date of birth, baby rules, etc., and about "Mother's Friend," used by three generations of mothers, and sold in all drug stores everywhere. "Mother's Friend" is applied externally. It is safe, free from narcotics, permits easier natural readjustment of muscles and nerves during expectancy and child-birth. Start using it today. Mrs. D. E. Kerner, Station, Minn., says: "I pulled me through." Send for book today to Bradfield Bookshop, Inc., 24-26 Atlantic St., New York City. "Mother's Friend" is sold at all good drug stores—everywhere.

FRIENDS NOTICED IMPROVEMENT

Wonderful Results from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bethel, Wis.—My female trouble was brought on by overwork. I had been overworked in stores and had to do heavier work than my strength could stand, and had to be on my feet most of the time. Finally I had to give up this work entirely and stay at home. Doctor's medicine did not give me much relief, and my mother wanted me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took a couple of bottles of it and thought it did not help me as much as it should, so I gave it up to try something else. Nothing I took helped me much, so I finally decided to give the Vegetable Compound another trial and to take enough of it to make sure it would help me. I have taken it over a year now and it has brought wonderful results. I have gained from 35 to 110 pounds and am keeping heavy now. My friends all notice the change in my health. I will be glad to answer all letters that women write to me about the Vegetable Compound.—Mrs. W. G. Monson, 1615 Park Ave., Beloit, Wis.

Mrs. Monson is willing to write to any woman suffering from such troubles.

STARVED HEARTS

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

OUT OF THE DEAD PAST. Madelon sped through the corridor to the sanctuary of her room, clutching Julian Barton's letter against her breast.

She wanted to be alone when she read it.

Her heart was beating wildly. She was as agitated as she would have been by his bodily appearance.

This was what she had anticipated when she had read the letter. It was what she had hoped for. It was what she had dreamed of. It was what she had longed for. It was what she had waited for. It was what she had craved for. It was what she had yearned for. It was what she had longed for. It was what she had waited for. It was what she had craved for. It was what she had yearned for.

she had had him goodbye forever. She could see the splendid tall strength of him, his broad chest, his dark hair, and the clear straightforward gray eyes contrasting so oddly with the bronze of his lean, handsome face. She could hear again the voice that stirred her heartstrings, and feel the steady strong comforting clasp of his hands, the magic thrill of his lips.

For the second time that day, she sobbed aloud in her loneliness and longing.

After a time she grew calmer. Her sobs ceased and she raised her head from her folded arms and wiped away the tears.

It would not do for Chandler to come in and find her dissolved in woe again that day. Soon he would believe that she had married a woe-man. She bathed her eyes and touched the lids with powder, rearranged her hair, and came back to the room where the letter lay.

With compressed lips she picked it up and started to tear open the flap.

Very slowly, she laid it down again.

Why open it now that it was too late? Whatever Julian Barton had to tell her could not help her now. It could only bring her heart with her hopeless desire, make her regret even more deeply the hasty marriage she had made.

She had been right when she begged him not to write. What wretched impulse could have caused him to break his word?

She remembered the letter she had written in her despair that afternoon on the train. She recalled how she had read it, torn it to bits, and scattered it to the winds.

Had Julian followed such an ungrateful impulse and through some miracle, failed to destroy his message?

She would never know!

Slowly and deliberately, she tore the letter across and across. Then, striking a match she knelt before the empty fireplace, and applied the light to the fragments.

They blazed momentarily; then sank down into a quivering blackened heap that disappeared after a lapse of several years.

Program of French Music Is Presented To Music Lovers

A program of French music was rendered by splendid artists Wednesday morning before the members of the Atlanta Music club at the Atlanta Women's club auditorium.

Preceding the program Mrs. Deot Hill, the president, announced the coming within the month of a new series of recitals, the world's greatest pianist and patriot, of Poland; a program by the club chorus on November 21 under the direction of Miss Lavin Clark King and an organ recital by Charles Sheldon on the magnificent instrument in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard Chandler in Druid Hills.

Miss Nana Tucker, chairman for the morning's unusual pleasure, handled with scholarly understanding different periods of French music, influences showing in composition of every period from the earliest to Debussy, the highest expression of modern French music.

Later these were given expression in a group of piano solos by Mrs. Charles Downman.

Especially suited for tenors is the music of the French opera and the rendition of two of these, "Champs Elysees" from "Joseph in Egypt" and "Vainement me lein aime" from "Le Roi des Vents," afforded opportunity to the tenor voice an interpretative ability of A. W. Brown.

Dramatic in its intensity and descriptive demands on the singer was the "Chevalier Belle Etoile," in which the mezzo-soprano voice of Mrs. W. F. Schellenger was heard. Signor Umberto Mighi, in "Suzanne and Sultane," by Polleque, pleased the audience.

New Year's Reception At White House.

Washington, November 7.—President and Mrs. Coolidge will continue the custom of holding a New Year's reception to the general public, which was revived by President and Mrs. Harding after a lapse of several years.

An announcement of the white house social program for the winter, made today, includes the New Year's reception and eight other dinners and receptions, beginning December 6 with the cabinet dinner and ending February 25 with the army and navy reception. The other events include the diplomatic reception, diplomatic dinner, judicial reception, supreme court dinner, congressional reception and speaker's dinner.

West End Club Will Give Dance.

The West End Community club will give an informal dance in the club rooms, corner of Gordon and Lee streets, Friday evening November 9, 1923. Dancing from 9 until 12:30. The college and fraternity dancing set are cordially invited. Chapters, Mrs. Fred S. Stovall, and an open forum for the discussion of building plans ensued.

The meeting was marked by the presentation of the charter to the club by its lawyer, H. M. Turner. A vote was cast ratifying the election of officers and all business that has been transacted up to the present time.

Mrs. Murray Howard, the president, presided at the opening. The meeting was later turned over to the chairman of the building committee, Mrs. Fred S. Stovall, and an open forum for the discussion of building plans ensued.

22 Nations Represented in Y. W. Pageant at Eggleston Hall

The Y. W. C. A. world fellowship pageant at Eggleston hall Wednesday evening was one of educational interest as well as of colorful beauty, being as it did a large cast of girls and women who represented in native costumes the twenty-two foreign countries in which the national Young Women's Christian association is working. Miss Dorothea Chambers of the Y. W. C. A. Stamboul center in Turkey centered the interest of the audience as the pageant theme was so well worked out as a background to her talk on the national work in the Stamboul center.

In the opening scene the girls entered singing "Lead On, O King Eternal." There were girls in Chinese costumes, representing the work of the Y. W. C. A. there; a Japanese woman represented the work of the national body in her country, and other girls represented association centers in Turkey, Sweden, Norway, South America, Denmark, Mexico, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Roumania, Armenia and the Indians of this country. A beautiful scene of the national work in India was portrayed by three girls making lace. The Indians of America and the national work with the natives represented. The local association had their separate departments represented by girls in costume.

Miss Chambers is on a tour through this country from the Stamboul center. In describing her work in Turkey she had no doubt before the question that was asked more than any others throughout the Eggleston hall audience, "What can the national Y. W. C. A. be doing in Turkey for girls where the customs are so different from anything that the Young Women's Christian association is doing in the United States?"

The foreign secretary explained that when the national Y. W. C. A. establishes a center in a foreign country such as is in Stamboul, there is no effort to do the established missionary work of churches. The foreign program is similar to that of this country, she said, the girls being offered their clubs and educational classes, physical development through gymnastics and recreation and opportunities for business training. They are given companionship and association with other girls just as the association gives girls in this country. The Y. W. C. A. mental, moral, physical and spiritual program is the same the world over, Miss Chambers explained.

Miss Chambers, who was born in Turkey, her parents being there as American missionaries at the time, went back to her native land in 1920 to take charge of the Y. W. C. A. work at Stamboul. Girls of many nationalities, including Turks, Greeks, Armenians and Russians, are loyal to the Y. W. C. A. officials she stated and are constant attendants in classes maintained by the organization. She will remain in Atlanta until Friday when she will return to Philadelphia and begin a lecture tour that will take her all over the New England and central states.

Thursday evening, Miss Chambers will speak to the Young Business Girls' club federation at the Y. W. C. A., Peachtree Arcade, at 6:40 o'clock.

At a meeting of the West End Woman's club Wednesday afternoon it was unanimously voted not to purchase a club house at the present time, and not at any time to buy a home ready built. The building committee was instructed to be on the alert for desirable lots on which to build a club house, these lots to be presented to the club as they seemed suitable.

The meeting was marked by the presentation of the charter to the club by its lawyer, H. M. Turner. A vote was cast ratifying the election of officers and all business that has been transacted up to the present time.

Mrs. Murray Howard, the president, presided at the opening. The meeting was later turned over to the chairman of the building committee, Mrs. Fred S. Stovall, and an open forum for the discussion of building plans ensued.

Just one of the Great Recipes from the New Royal Cook Book:

LADY BALTIMORE CAKE

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar whites of 3 eggs
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract or ½ teaspoon almond extract
1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Cream shortening; add sugar and unbeaten white of one egg; add milk very slowly, beating between each addition; add flouring; add flour which has been sifted with baking powder; lastly fold in beaten whites of 2 eggs. Bake in square greased layer tins in hot oven about 15 minutes. Use following filling and cover top and sides of cake with white icing.

FILLING

1½ cups sugar
½ cup water
2 whites of 2 eggs
½ cup chopped seeded raisins
½ cup chopped figs
1 cup chopped blanched almonds or pecan nuts
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

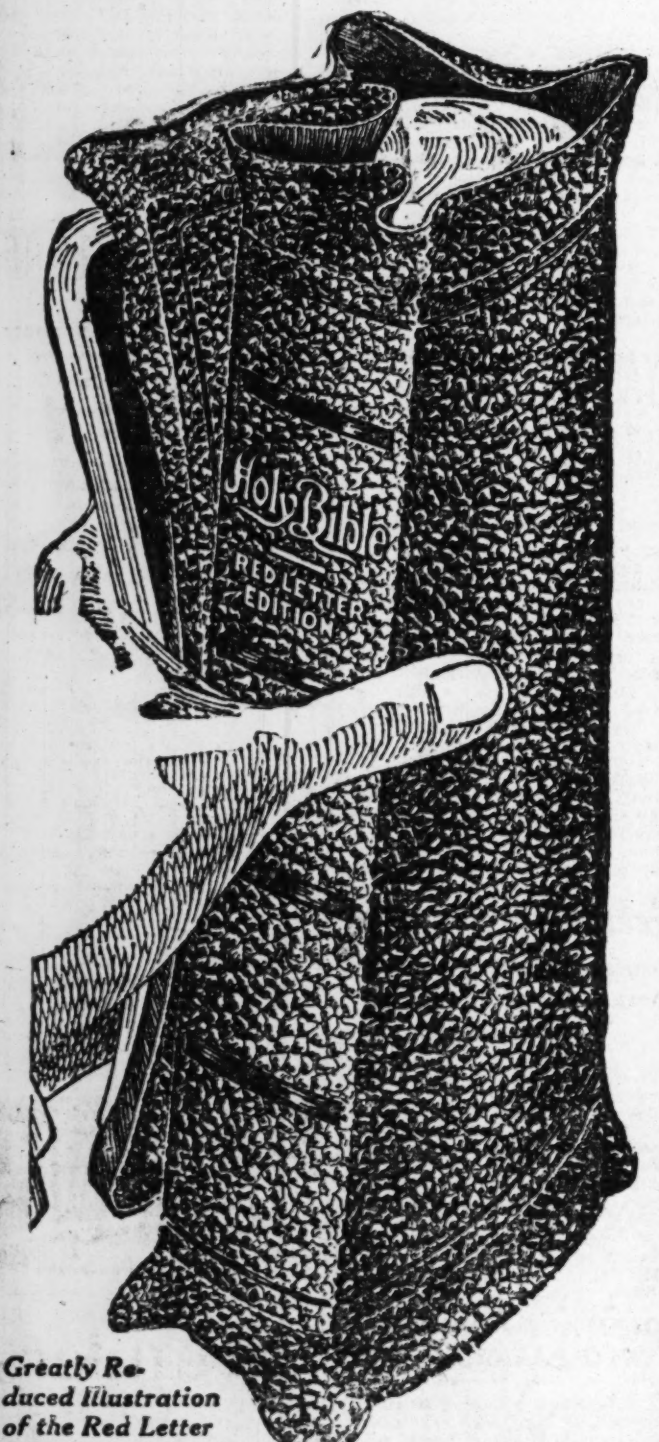

Boil sugar and water without stirring until syrup spins a thread. Pour syrup slowly over beaten eggs. Mix in fruit, nuts and flavoring. Spread between layers of cake.

WHITE ICING

1½ cups confectioner's sugar
2 tablespoons hot milk
½ teaspoon butter
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Add butter to hot milk; add sugar slowly to make right consistency to spread; add vanilla. Spread on cake.

Howard Theatre—All week, Fota Neri in "The Spanish Dancer," and other screen features.

"The Bat."
(At the Atlanta Theatre Tonight.)

Plays may come as plays may go, but "The Bat" will fly on forever. Thus did one of the best known theatrical authorities in this city express himself on seeing the announcement that "The Bat" was to be again at the Atlanta theatre tonight.

It will begin an engagement of three nights and Saturday matinee. Love, hate, fear, jealousy, greed—all these human qualities, however, have been conspicuous in the history of mankind, since the time that history began. And "The Bat," which embodies all of these great emotions in the qualities of its plot, naturally finds a responsive audience this year.

"The Monster."
(Atlanta Theatre Next Week.)

Crane Wilbur, who has won fame on the speaking stage as well as in the movies, has added the dignity of author to his laurels and is now an actor-author playing in his own play, "The Monster," which will be the attraction at the Atlanta theatre throughout the coming week with matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

Mr. Wilbur did not make a profitable form of business; our biggest money-making ventures have been played at a wholesome sort.

The seat for the local stage management starts at the Atlanta theatre box office tomorrow (Friday) morning.

"The Gold Diggers."
(At the Lyric.)

Crowds filling the Lyric theatre at each performance this week indicate that the news has become generally current that something extraordinary in entertainment is being offered.

GERMAN TROOPS ON ROCKY ROADS

STILLMAN OFFERS CONFESSION LETTER

London, November 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—A German-run British vessel, within range of the American ships, has been so provocative of American resentment against Germany that it has received a death blow from the imperial conference today.

In its closing session the conference accepted in modified form the original proposals of Secretary of State Hughes for checking this traffic.

The question now is out of the hands of the imperial conference delegates, and a formal treaty vesting the United States with authority for the search and seizure of British ships suspected of carrying contraband alcohol within stipulated steaming distance of the American shore is nearing completion at the hands of four great powers.

A complete understanding has been reached between the state department at Washington and the British foreign office regarding the main points of the document, and there appears to be no serious obstacle to its acceptance by both governments.

The treaty will confer reciprocal rights on Great Britain in the shape of granting authority to its coast guard to search for and seize contraband liquor stores into American ports under seal, when intended for onward consumption.

Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, now is communicating the treaty to the cabinet and the House of Commons.

MODEL FOR TREATY PRESENTED BY HARVEY.

Washington, November 7.—Lacking official advice as to the action taken by the imperial conference, administrative officials could throw no additional light on the specific terms of the proposed treaty with Great Britain.

Dispatches spoken of in London indicate that in progress between Secretary Hughes and Lord Curzon, probably refer to the conversations of Ambassador Harvey with the British foreign minister before the ambassador started home.

Mr. Harvey was able to amplify, on instructions from Washington, the position of the United States and point out the specific objective of the Washington government.

The original treaty suggestion made by Secretary Hughes was incorporated into a draft treaty. Until the British counter-proposal have been received in text, comment on the situation is withheld here in official circles.

It is obvious, however, that administrative officials are entirely satisfied with the situation and with the unofficial versions of the British proposals reported in press cables.

It became known Wednesday that a number of Atlanta lawyers had been mentioned as likely counsel for Fox, who is expected to be released today.

Attorney H. Allen was the only lawyer with whom he conversed during the day. Attorney Allen stated that he might be retained by Fox.

An important development of the day was the dismissal of municipal court judge J. M. McInnis and Brown Harwood, three imperial palace officials, when Dr. Fred B. POWELL REPORTS ATTEMPT ON LIFE

STILLMAN OFFERS CONFESSION LETTER

A Lover in Chains

By Elizabeth York Miller.

Stanhope laughed and accepted the bat. From his point of view it was impossible not to admire Joyce and she accepted her dismissal without argument.

"Yes, I must be off. Thanks, awfully. . . Would you care for these? They're your favorite brand, I believe."

He dived into his pocket and brought out a little purple embossed box tied, as she had reason to know, with scented and drugged cigarettes. There was a subtle challenge in the offer.

Joyce shook her head. The only sign of possible weakness she gave was to clasp her hands behind her.

"No, thanks. I've given them up."

"Really? How long since?"

"Last night—if you must know."

Stanhope threw back his head and laughed.

"You haven't begun yet."

"No, that is—I've just begun."

The nervous tremor in her voice told him that she was by no means sure of herself.

"Well, let me know what happens. Good-night. . . Good-night, Miss Savres. Don't trouble to see me down. There's a light on the landing."

Before Millie could explain how and why Stanhope had come to be admitted, the poor-elder sister broke into a fit of hysterical weeping.

Between sobs she told the child as much of her story as she felt would bear telling. It had the great advantage of diverting Millie's mind.

She had been to Terence and told him all about it and he had promised to help her, but she needed Millie's help, too.

Millie stared in wonder, for it seemed so impossible that Joyce, who had everything, could require help of any sort from her.

"What can I do?" she asked.

"Let me come and live with you," Joyce replied.

"Here?"

"There's plenty of room, isn't there?"

"Heaps—but would you like it, Joyce?"

Millie had a keen memory and recalled those days when pretty, flighty Joyce had found the old neighborhood insupportable and longed for a wilder world.

"I'd be very grateful if you'd let me come, Millie," Joyce said humbly. "And I'd be a help, not a burden. You must let me pay Mr. Traill, for one thing. We can go share in the business, you and I. I've got plenty of money and later on we can start a branch shop on Bond street. I must have something to do, Millie. Surely, for the sake of the children, you'll let me help. Poor little Katie can go to a good school, and we will have a proper nurse for baby, and I'll fix up the rooms as nice as possible."

"But how would I be helping?" Millie asked, a little dismayed by the promise of all these splendid things.

"Just by letting me share your life. Perhaps I can win back something I've lost."

"You mean Terence," Millie said quickly.

"No, not Terence. My self-respect, if you must know. And a little of youth and joy and goodness—such as you've got to overflowing."

"Poor Joyce," Millie sighed, not quite understanding the course of her own life. "But it's so strange that you should feel like that."

The two girls slept together that night. At least one of them, Joyce lay tense, every miserable nerve in her body clanking for the poison that had become their daily food.

How long would she have to endure this agony? Could she hold out?

Terence had told her to pray, but it had been years since she had prayed. She slipped out of bed and to her knees on the cold floor.

"Oh, God, help me—help me!"

That was all she could think of to say, but she said it over and over again before she crept back into bed, chilled to the bone. One of Millie's soft arms had crossed her shoulders and she felt vaguely comforted.

Mrs. Desmond, having quarreled with her "best friend," had not been interested in the fact that Joyce had given up her luxurious little flat and sold most of her furniture.

In Gay's world, people came and went, leaving her quite indifferent. There were now only two who really mattered, Donald Traill and Jack Stanhope. It kept her busy scheming that the two men should not meet, and that Donald should have no reason to disbelieve her when she said she had gone to her doctor, taken his advice, and that really giving up drugs was not the desperate ordeal some people made out.

She was cheerful and even a little contemptuous about it when he questioned her. The terrible scene she had had with him had completely faded from her mind, but the lingering effect of it was to make her very crafty. She must never again commit the sin of being found out.

She was in Jack Stanhope's clutches so utterly that he could and did threaten to blackmail her for almost as much as he pleased. She had even negotiated to "lend" him $5,000 to put into one of his dubious enterprises.

A strange element crept into her parties, too. Before they had been merely smart—possibly a little dashing and heartless. Now, insidiously, a change for the worse was taking place.

The Knightsbridge palace had become a sort of night club, desirable popular because of the excellent ballroom and music, and the astonishingly good food and drink.

Yet in spite of every attraction, the new element crept in and pushed out the old. The smart women came no more. Their place was taken by a gay, more abandoned feminine galaxy, nearly as well dressed, but much freer in speech and manners.

Through it all Donald Traill stood grimly by the woman to whom he had pledged his word, and who he believed needed him. He felt responsible for her. He hoped she would come to her senses, and he thought the moral slackening he was due to the fact that she was making a valiant and secret effort to cure herself of drugs.

It must be a great trial, and, of course, she had not the strength to attend to everything.

concerned would cause automatically. He should have known better, but unfortunately he did not.

Gay was much moved by the urgency with which he appeared to plead his visit, yet in a way she was not to be hurried. For one thing, she was getting together in a noncommittal elaborate trousseau. For another, she rather feared this marriage, although his passionate infatuation for Donald was as great as ever. It was possible, as things were, to hide her secret from him. With a husband it would be very different.

Jack Stanhope had not introduced her to cocaine, but he had appeared upon her horizon at a very definite moment. Since a certain tragedy itily lived in the papers, she had found difficulty in obtaining it. Stanhope, apparently, could do so with the utmost ease, and was willing to supply her at a price. The price began to be heavy, but her need was great, and she paid.

The shadow of destiny was overtaking her. If she had to choose between the drug and Donald Traill—what then?

So it ended in her setting the wedding day, and her fancy was for a church ceremony.

On the evening before they were to be married, Donald Traill was in his four House, hoping to find Terence alone.

He had not counted upon both Millie and Joyce being there. It was Terence's birthday, however, and they had been invited to help him celebrate.

Between sobs she told the child as much of her story as she felt would bear telling. It had the great advantage of diverting Millie's mind.

She had been to Terence and told him all about it and he had promised to help her, but she needed Millie's help, too.

It must be a great trial, and, of course, she had not the strength to attend to everything.

Donald's one idea, now, was to get the wedding over and done with, for the time was fast approaching when he felt he wouldn't be able to trust himself. He held the rather ill-considered idea that were he Gay's husband, all temptation where Millie Savres was gan to talk hard and fast about Joyce. "Isn't it just wonderful! Joyce told me you knew what she'd get into," so she won't mind my telling you that she's quite cured herself. She says Terence and I helped a lot. We had some pretty bad nights but it's all over now. Terence wants to marry her and—she's head over heels in love with him. I think it's going to be all right for them."

"I'm so glad," Donald murmured. Yet somehow he did not look at all glad, nor feel that way.

Tomorrow this time he would be Gay Desmond's husband and on his way with her to Wales where the honeymoon was to be spent.

Tomorrow night this place, lamp-lit room, with its worn bed and humble bowl of inexpensive flowers, would have faded out of his life forever and be no more than a heart-wrenching memory.

"Millie, there are tears in your eyes."

He made the discovery so suddenly that the announcement of it was surprised from his lips.

"I can't help it!"

She quivered into helplessness and hid her twitching face in the crook of her arm.

"Millie don't! For God's sake, don't. I'll forget myself in a moment. I think I must be going, and I love you. It isn't too late."

The girl's eyes flashed and she drew away proudly.

She had not been quite so ready to fall into his arms as he had thought. There was stern warning in that glance, and his hand fell limply from her shoulders. Even before she spoke she had accused and convicted him.

Donald got up. If he had sat there another instant he would have taken her into his arms.

What a poor, helpless fool he had been! The girl loved him as he did her, and he had no right to place Gay before her. Gay had forfeited the hold she had over him and he had allowed himself to be kept in place by a trick.

He paused by Millie's chair and laid a heavy insistent hand on one of her shoulders.

"Millie, I'm a fool and a cur and everything that's despicable, but I love you. It isn't too late."

The girl's eyes flashed and she drew away proudly.

She had not been quite so ready to fall into his arms as he had thought. There was stern warning in that glance, and his hand fell limply from her shoulders. Even before she spoke she had accused and convicted him.

"You say you love me. How can a good man love two women, Mr. Traill? If you do not love Mrs. Desmond then—then I'm afraid you're not the man I thought you were."

Her quiet scorn stung him to the quick. She was so very right. He was not even the man he had taken himself to be. Yet, to show Millie to believe, as she must, that he was marrying Gay for the sake of money was unthinkable.

But what could he say, without revealing himself in every word as an utter cur? Could he make excuses for himself to this girl who loved yet judged him? Could he explain that chivalry had played its part in his motive? Perhaps what he had thought to be chivalry was merely weakness and the cowardly prompting of a guilty conscience.

But he knew, nevertheless, that between men and women in matters of this sort, a great gulf is fixed that prevents full understanding. It is the time-honored privilege of woman to sit her lover with no better reason than that she has changed her mind, and the process need not injure even her self-esteem. Donald's greatest mistake so far lay not in the breaking of his word to Gay—he meant to keep that—but in betraying himself to Millie. If the girl could have gone on thinking that he did not care for her, time might cure her. It was senseless selfishness that had allowed him to speak like that. Now he felt that he had forfeited forever the priceless gift of her respect.

He turned away from her, trembling so violently that when he tried to light a cigarette it slipped from his fingers. As he was retrieving it, Joyce and Terence came back into the room beaming with subdued happiness.

"Well, have you persuaded her to take a holiday?" Terence asked. Millie replied for Donald.

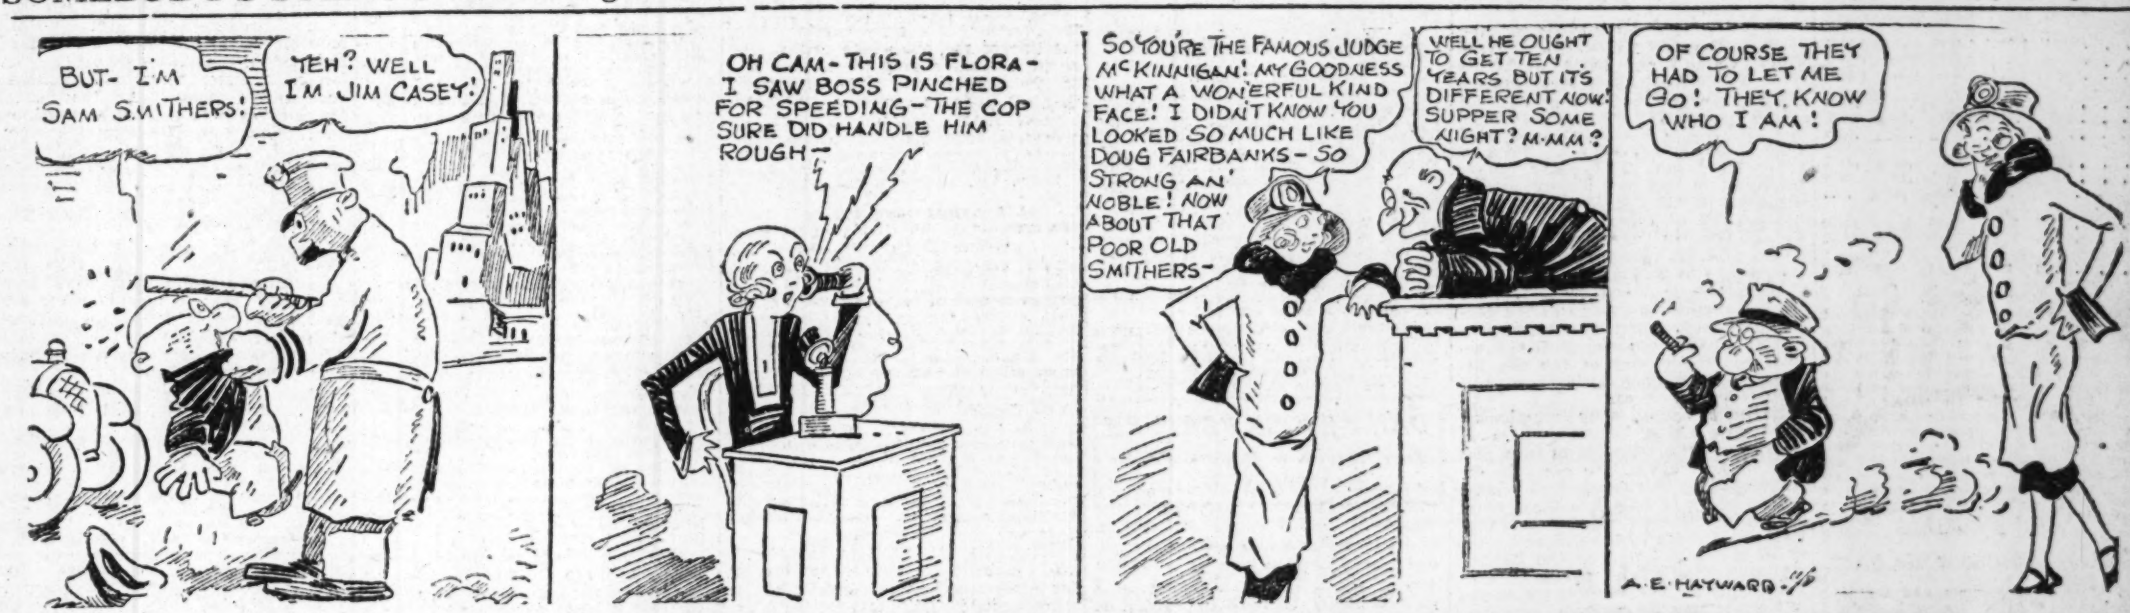

"I think he has," she said quietly. "I should like it to be a long one."

"I say, that's splendid. . . But look here, old chap, you're not the only one who's taking a chance at the game of double harness. Joyce has said the word at last! Congratulations. This has been the best birthday I ever had."

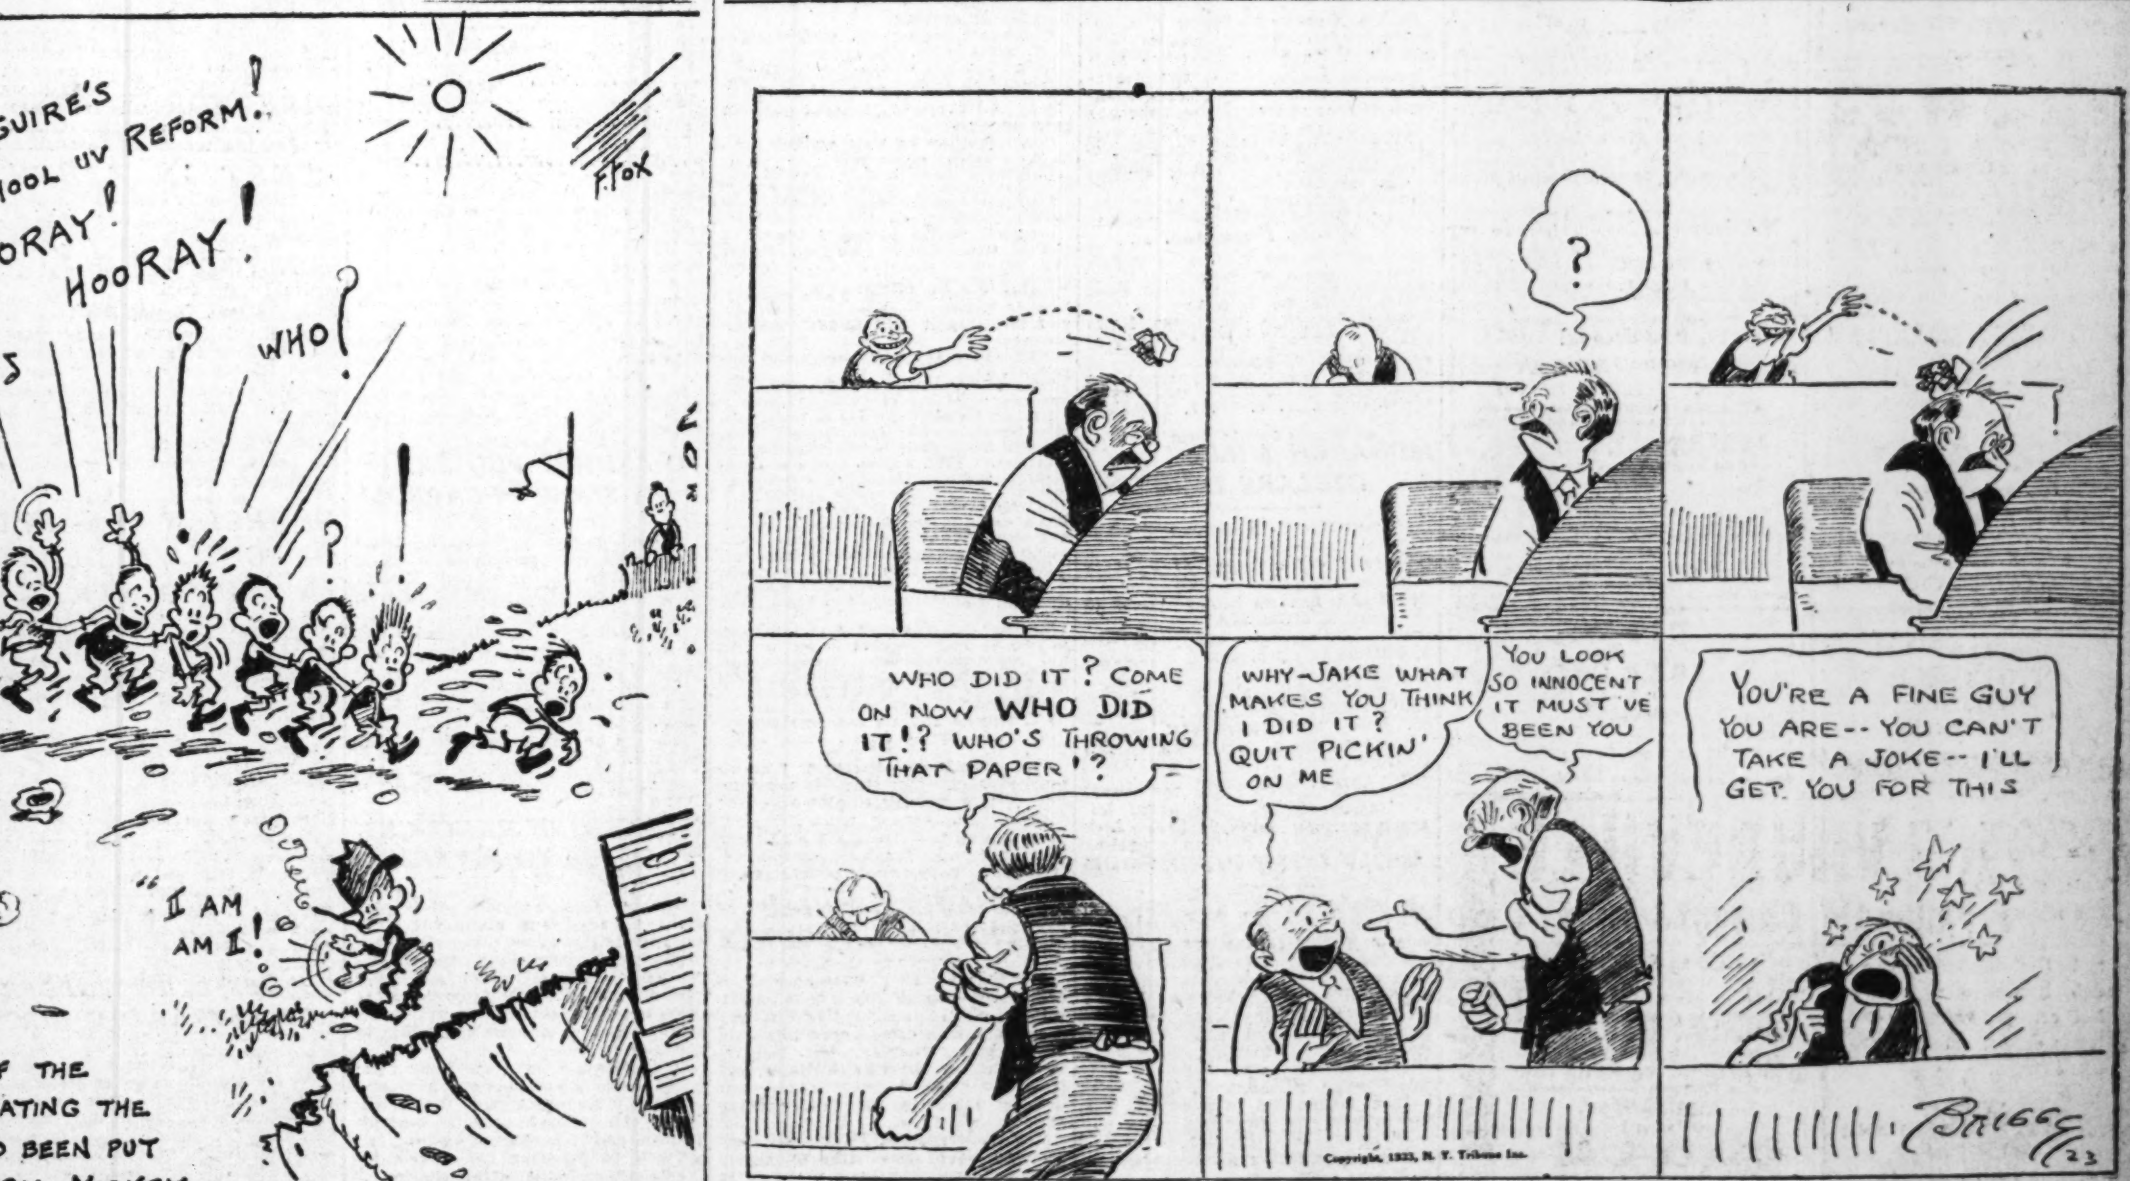

Donald dared not allow himself time in which to think that evening. To insure sleep, as he hoped, he walked for miles, but thought pursued him like a faithful shadow.

CORN AGAIN SEES HEAVY ADVANCES

Chicago, November 7.—With the corn market showing a power to recover from declines, closing prices for wheat were unsettled at a range varying from 3-5 cent lower to 1-4 cent higher, December 105-5 to 105-3-4 and May 111 to 111-1-4. Corn finished 13-8 to 2-2 1/2 cents up, oats at 1-8 1/4 to 1-13-8 advance, and provisions with 12c to 30c gain.

Aside from the corn strength, wheat was the only grain market at New York. Wheat selling here, however, increased when prices advanced. The result of the enlarged selling was a material setback in values about mid-afternoon, but the strong upward swing of the corn market was subsequently a decided counter influence, and wheat was rallying again as the day ended, with gossip about that the surplus of wheat in exporting countries had been considerably overestimated.

Although talk about likelihood of President Coolidge asking congress to appropriate money to buy wheat and flour for relief in Germany had some effect as a bullish factor, the rally in the wheat market was due chiefly to the strength of corn. Assertions that large numbers of vessels were taking on grain cargoes in Russian ports and that the Argentine wheat crop outlook was promising failed to keep the wheat market down.

Active general buying of corn took place owing mainly to scantiness of receipts here and to predictions that the government report tomorrow would suggest a crop and carry-over less than the average. December delivery of corn rose to within a fraction of the season's top price. Oats sympathized with the corn advance.

Provisions were lifted by the advance of corn, hogs and cottonseed oil.

New York, November 7.—There was a further advance of approximately 38.00 per cent in the price of cotton here today on excited general buying. All months made new high records for the season with January deliveries selling at 33.75, while March touched the 34-cent level or 123 to 130 points above Monday's closing quotations. Last prices were a few points off from the best under the new contract, with the market closing steady at net advances of 11 to 12 points on present crop months. The futures were up 10 to 15 points higher to 25 points lower.

The market opened firm at an advance of 50 to 100 points on present crop months and 30 to 50 points higher on coming crop positions on the sensational strength of both New Orleans and Liverpool over yesterday's level. Reports of unfavorable weather in the south and bullish private ginning and crop figures stimulated the demand and led to a pause in the upward movement until active months were 120 to 145 points net higher. There was a realization around 33.50 for December and 33.55 for May to cause reactions of some 35 to 45 points during the middle of the day when the disposition to take profits was increased by reports that spots were offering on a tenderable basis in some sections of the south.

The declines, however, brought in fresh commission house buying, while the trade buying continued, and one of the features in the late trading was the buying by houses with both Liverpool and London connections. Prices reached the highest figures late in the afternoon with December selling at 34.10 and May at 33.95, making net gains of 125 to 140 points on the active positions. Last prices were 10 to 20 points off from the best under the new contract, with the market closing steady at net advances of 11 to 12 points on present crop months. The futures were up 10 to 15 points higher to 25 points lower.

WIDE SWINGS AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, November 7.—Swings in the price were fairly wide in the cotton market today and most months broke into new high ground for the season, but the net changes on the day were insignificant, last sales being 11 points up to 1 point down, compared with the last sales of yesterday. Selling out by the end of the day, the market was quiet, with a few scattered sales. It was reported that private returns indicated a ginning of 7,500 bales to November 1 and points to a total of 9,000 bales. Private returns were also said to indicate domestic mill consumption of 525,000 bales for October against 534,000 last year.

Mrs. John Woodside, Sr., Honored At Lovely Farewell Luncheon

Mrs. John J. Woodside, Sr., who leaves for New York the first part of next week, and with Mr. Woodside will sail on November 14 on the Franconia for a trip around the world, was honor guest at a surprise farewell luncheon given Wednesday by her daughter, Mrs. John J. Woodside, Jr., at her home on East Fifteenth street.

The exquisitely appointed table was covered with a handsome patch work cloth, and adorned the center was a silver basket holding yellow chrysanthemums. Silver candlesticks held unshaded yellow candles. The guests were seated at smaller tables which were decorated in small silver baskets filled with yellow chrysanthemums. Mrs. James H. Whitten sang several vocal selections, adding to the entertainment and pleasure of the occasion. A guessing contest was played and Mrs. W. W. Roberts won the prize, a set of table mats. Mrs. Robert Camp poured coffee from a silver service placed at one end of the table. A number of attractive gifts were presented Mrs. Woodside.

Mrs. Woodside, the charming hostess, was dressed in black velvet. Mrs. Woodside, the honor guest, wore a handsome gown of black satin.

Mrs. W. T. Gentry assisted her daughter in entertaining and was dressed in black satin, trimmed with real lace.

Invited to meet Mrs. Woodside were Mrs. Charles Roberts, Mrs. Robert Camp, Mrs. Joseph Gause, Mrs. W. W. Roberts, Mrs. Graham Phelan, Mrs. James H. Whitten, Mrs. John J. Dwyer, Mrs. T. B. Norris, Mrs. J. V. Pierson, Mrs. W. W. Roberts and Miss Georgia Pepper.

Mrs. Scott was appointed chairman of this newly organized division, and Mrs. W. F. Dunbar was elected secretary.

The lovely home was decorated with a lavish arrangement of autumn flowers. In the center of the tea table was a silver basket filled with yellow chrysanthemums, and encircling this were silver candelabra holding yellow unshaded tapers and cornucopias filled with yellow and white mints.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. J. Y. Sage, Jr., and Miss Irene Thomas.

Mrs. Scott was wearing a becoming model of black velvet.

Interesting talks were made by R. Adams and D. Russell, of the Mississippi committee, and plans were discussed for a dinner which the committee will give in December.

Colonel McBride Is Honored With Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Moore, Jr., entertained at a family dinner Wednesday evening at their home on East Seventh street in honor of their cousin, Colonel Robert McBride, who has just returned from a four years' stay in Panama.

The handsomely appointed table was overlaid with an imported cover of lace and embroidery. A large silver basket filled with fall flowers in the Dresden shades adorned the center and was surrounded by silver candlesticks holding unshaded rose-colored tapers.

Mrs. Moore wore a handsome gown of coral-colored velvet, modishly draped.

Covers were placed for the family connection of the distinguished guest of honor.

Mrs. Wesley Espy Is Complimented

Mrs. Wesley Espy, of Savannah, formerly Miss Katherine Hook, of Atlanta, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Stephen Hook, was the central figure at a bridge-noon given by Mrs. Hook Wednesday afternoon at the home on Myrtle street.

Tea was served at the individual tables following the game.

Mrs. Espy will be complimented with a series of social affairs during her visit.

Miss Davidson Entertains Debs.

An interesting event of Wednesday was the bridge-luncheon at which Miss Marjorie Davidson was hostess to the members of the Debutante club at her home in the Peachtree court, on Peachtree street.

A short business session was held preceding the game when the members voted to stage a ball on November 7. Due to the interest and activity of the debutantes in the "Kirmess," which will be produced by the Atlanta Woman's club November 23, no further events will be planned until after that date.

The apartment reception rooms were attractively decorated with fall flowers in vases and baskets. Luncheon was served at the individual tables.

Bryn Mawr Alumnae Will Be Tendered Luncheon Saturday

A luncheon will be given Saturday at Agnes Scott college in compliment to the members of the Bryn Mawr alumnae who will be in Atlanta to attend the conference of the industrial committee of the Young Woman's Christian association, of which Mrs. Robert K. Rambo is chairman.

This conference will be held relative to sending girls to the summer school for industrial training established at Bryn Mawr, and is at the invitation of Miss Jean Davis, the chairman of social service at Agnes Scott.

Miss Davis is also conducting the study of industrial conditions in the industrial committee of the Y. W. C. A.

Invited to meet the visiting alumnae will be the members of Mrs. Rambo's committee.

Reading Club Will Meet.

The Friday Morning Reading club will meet with Mrs. Hunt Chipley at 10:30 o'clock at her home on Wesley road.

Miss Elder Honors Sub-Debs.

The members of the Sub-Deb club were entertained Wednesday afternoon by Miss Margaret Elder at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Elder, on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Bridge was played and later tea was served at the individual tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodson Will Give Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Dodson will entertain at dinner Tuesday evening at their home in Druid Hills in compliment to Dr. and Mrs. Henry Alford Porter, who leave next week for St. Louis to make their future home.

Mrs. Gilham of Louisiana Will Be Complimented

Mrs. Paul A. Gilham, of Alexandria, La., arrived Wednesday to be the guest of Mrs. P. C. Gilham, at her home on Maddox drive.

This charming visitor will be entertained extensively during her visit.

Today Mrs. P. C. Gilham will entertain at a bridge-luncheon at her home, complimenting her guest.

Friday, Mrs. D. L. Echols will be hostess at a bridge-luncheon at her home in Highland View, in honor of Mrs. Gilham.

Mrs. Gilham will be the central figure at a luncheon Tuesday at which Mrs. C. Y. House will be hostess.

Wednesday, Mrs. W. C. English, Jr., and Mrs. Aline Nance Parrot will entertain at a bridge-luncheon at the home of Mrs. Parrot on Peachtree, honoring this attractive visitor.

Other parties are being planned for Mrs. Gilham, the dates to be announced later.

Brilliant Wedding Unites Miss Cutts And Ernest Merry

Savannah, Ga., November 7.—(Special.)—One of the most brilliant weddings of the season was that this evening of Miss Marjorie Cutts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Alton Cutts, to Ernest Merry, of Augusta, which was solemnized in the historic Independent Presbyterian church at 9 o'clock.

Of unusual social importance and interest was the marriage which was attended by a large number of invited friends of the parties, many out-of-town visitors being here for the event.

The bride is an extremely popular member of Savannah's younger society set, and has been the center of many parties given in her honor during the past few weeks. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Neal Anderson, pastor of the church, and was followed by a beautiful reception at the home of her parents on East Winnet street.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage, wore a gown fashioned of white chiffon velvet, unrelieved by any trimming except the court train of beautiful Spanish lace. Her flowers were white orchids.

The gowns of the maid of honor and bridesmaids, in charming contrasting colors, were very effective. Miss Edith Battey, the maid of honor, wearing a coral-colored crepe roma dress with bouquet of sunset-colored roses showered with delphinium. The bridesmaids, Miss Anne Read and Miss Jane Keulhofer, of Columbia, wore cloud blue crepe, with bouquet of roses and color of the maid of honor's gown. The bride's little niece and nephew were the flower girl and page.

Kenneth Merry, of Augusta, was his brother's best man; George Barrett and Clayton Boardman, of Augusta, the groomsmen, and Harvey Granger, Jr., Fred Howden, Beverly Kelley and W. G. Morrell, of Savannah, and Owen Perry and Harry Walker Bagley, of Atlanta, were the ushers.

Business Woman's Club Meeting.
The Business Woman's league, of the West End Baptist, will meet Sunday afternoon, November 11, at 3 o'clock in the Fidelis classroom. A very interesting program has been arranged for the afternoon.

Miss Catherine Bryan, a missionary from Shantung province, central China, will be the speaker of the afternoon and will tell the league of her work in China. All business women of the church are urged to be present and the public is most cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. A. R. Colcord is chairman and Miss Ella McLendon is assistant chairman.

Music Chairman Issues Call.
Mrs. J. A. Murphy, chairman of music for the West End Woman's club, requests all members of the club who care to join the newly organized chorus, whether they have trained voices or not, to meet with her Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the studio of Mrs. M. E. Burt, in the Wesley Memorial building.

Short Story Is Subject Of Writers' Club Program

The Atlanta Writers' club met in the assembly room of the Carnegie library on Wednesday afternoon and assembled a large number of members of the club.

Dudley Cowles, president of the club, opened the meeting and gave some interesting data regarding Frank Swinnerton, who is to be brought to Atlanta in December by the Writers' club. Mr. Cowles then turned the program over to Dr. Melton, of Emory university, who presided over the meeting.

"The Short Story" was the topic of discussion for the afternoon. Dr. James Routh, of Oglethorpe university, the first speaker on the program, began with the skeleton of the story, and from the bare outline explained the various methods of developing the short story.

Mrs. Edythe Cone Becomes Bride Of James Spratt

The marriage of Mrs. Edythe Umbach Cone and James Bishop Spratt, of Jacksonville, Fla., took place at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the First Christian church, the ceremony being performed by Dr. L. O. Bricker, and was witnessed only by immediate relatives.

The bride wore a handsome three-piece imported model of coco-flamingo cloth with collar and cuffs of red fox. The hat was a close fitting French model in dark brown panne velvet, trimmed in dull gold and silver, ornamented in front with rhinestone pins. She wore a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride, who is one of Atlanta's most beautiful and accomplished young women, possesses a dramatic soprano voice of unusual richness and orillancy. She is a graduate of Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore, Md. She was, for some time, soprano soloist at St. Philip's cathedral and later the First Methodist church.

Mrs. Spratt is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Jane A. Umbach and the late John A. H. Umbach. Mrs. Spratt is a sister of Mrs. E. M. Miller, of Hagerstown, Md., and Mrs. A. L. Hans, of Atlanta, are her sisters.

Mr. Spratt is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Spratt, of Jacksonville, Fla. He is a graduate of Cornell university and served with distinction during the World war. He spent twenty-one months overseas, taking part in all the important engagements with the famous Fifth regiment, U. S. Marines, in which organization he was a first lieutenant. He is a junior member of the firm of Palmer & Palmer, Inc., real estate and insurance, of Jacksonville, Fla. T. N. Palmer, his uncle, being president of that firm. Mr. Spratt is a member of the Timpana Country club, Florida Yacht club and Florida Country club.

Mr. and Mrs. Spratt left immediately after the ceremony on a wedding trip to Miami and Palm Beach. On their return they will occupy their handsome new home, the gift of the groom's parents, in Avondale, the beautiful residential suburb of Jacksonville.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James W. Spratt, mother and father of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin Palmer, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Loridans Will Entertain Alliance Francaise

Mrs. Charles Loridans will entertain the members of the "French Alliance" at her home, 16 East Fifteenth street, today at 3:30 o'clock.

The special occasion of the meeting will be the installation of the newly-elected officers of the club for the current year.

A musical program will be provided by B. H. Warner, who will sing several French selections, accompanied at the piano by Miss Margaret Anderson. Miss M. Sinton will relate of her experience during an excursion through the French Alps last summer and Charles Loridans will speak of some of the French plays that he had the pleasure of seeing in Paris.

All the members of the alliance are cordially invited.

DAILY CALENDAR OF SOCIAL EVENTS

Miss Jennie Robinson will entertain at a luncheon at her home in compliment to Miss Gwendolyn Graves, of New York.

Mrs. J. P. Allen will compliment Miss Marian Vaughan with a bridge-tee at Druid Hills Golf club.

The Colonial Dames will meet at the home of Mrs. Willie Martin Hurt on Piedmont avenue at 3:30 o'clock.

Walter R. Brown will be host at dinner at the Capital City club in compliment to Dr. Henry Alford Porter, pastor of the Second Baptist church, who, with Mrs. Porter, will leave at an early date for St. Louis to make their future home.

Mrs. Eugene Cox will entertain at a bridge-tee this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Atlanta Woman's club in compliment to Miss Anna Mae Hardin, of Tampa, Fla.

Mrs. P. C. Gilham will entertain at a bridge-luncheon today at her home on Maddox drive, in compliment to her guest, Mrs. Paul Gilham, of Alexandria, La.

Miss Mary Shelden will be hostess at dinner this evening at her home on Peachtree road, in honor of Miss Graves, of New York, who is the guest of Miss Sue Bucknell.

The Segado's club will give their regular weekly dance this evening at Segado's hall.

Mrs. John Newton McEachern will entertain today at the Atlanta Woman's club in honor of Miss Dorothy Chambers, secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Ruby Legg will entertain the "Cecilians," a dramatic club, at her home on Bedford place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The O. B. X. sorority of Washington seminary will meet this afternoon at the home of Miss Constance Cone on The Prado, Ansley park.

Habersham Chapter Atlanta Music Club D. A. R. Board Presents Program Is Entertained Of French Music

The members of the executive board of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., were entertained at luncheon Wednesday by Mrs. B. C. Ward, chairman of the board, at her home in Ansley Park, following the regular monthly meeting of the board.

The table in the dining room was overlaid with a cover of lace and Madeira embroidery. A tall silver basket of yellow and white chrysanthemums adorned the center.

The members of the board included: Mrs. Christian Clarke, Mrs. Walter Scott Coleman, Mrs. George Niles, Miss Anna Bennett, Mrs. Francis Browne, Mrs. R. G. Dunwoody, Mrs. Moody, Mrs. Warren D. White, Miss Helen Prescott, Mrs. Julian Bailey, Miss Nina Hornady, Mrs. J. R. Hardin, Mrs. J. C. Gentry, Mrs. C. H. Ashford, Mrs. Campbell Krennon, Mrs. John A. Perdue, Mrs. W. L. Perry, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mrs. Harry Schuler, Mrs. C. Decker Tebo, Mrs. Joan T. Toler, Mrs. S. F. Boykin, Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mrs. Marion Harper, Mrs. Charles E. Robertson, Mrs. Charles Loridans, Mrs. F. J. Faxon, Mrs. H. Clay Moore, Mrs. A. L. Milligan, Mrs. A. P. Treadwell, Mrs. Joy Calhoun, Mrs. R. M. Stripling, Mrs. W. F. Dykes, Mrs. A. P. Coles, Mrs. Spencer Atkinson, Mrs. H. B. Scott, Mrs. Linton Hopkins, Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, Mrs. Eric Atkin, Mrs. George Dexter, Mrs. Charles Whitner, Mrs. J. N. Harper, Mrs. Lenard Etheridge, Mrs. Allison Greene, Mrs. Frank Golden and Mrs. J. R. Watts.

Mrs. Charles Dowman displayed excellent musicianship in his playing of a group of old French works which require a sense of taste and appreciation for their proper interpretation. She further demonstrated her versatility in the "Prelude" and "Clair de Lune" from "Suite Bergamasque" of Debussy. These beautiful tone pictures of the ultra modern impressionist school were played with real charm and warmth.

A. W. Brownings delightful tenor voice is always a welcome addition to the morning programs, his aria from "Joseph in Egypt" by Meiburg delivered in splendid style and his selection from "L'Orfeo" most enthusiastically received.

Mrs. William T. Shallenberger contributed a charming French song by Augusta Holmes "Chevalier Belle Etoile." This was Mrs. Shallenberger's initial appearance before the club and her rich contralto voice and interesting style were pleasantly presented.

Umberto Nigle, concert collector of the Howard orchestra, played the popular prelude to "The Deluge" of Saint-Saens with a wonderfully warm tone and the "Serenade and Saltarelle" of Folbecke was given with clearness and musicianship feeling.

Miss Ethel Beyer gave intelligent support at all times with her accompanying and her work is always appreciated.

The Charm of the Unusual Expressed in

Exquisite Evening Gowns Afternoon and Dinner Dresses

Achieving the distinctive and the unusual in style is so happily accomplished in these delightful new models that we cordially invite the inspection of every woman who appreciates beautiful clothes.

It is our pleasure to show and to help in selecting what is most becoming.

The Vogue for Velvet finds expression in many magnificent gowns combined with elaborate beadings, embroideries, metal laces, and often with touches of furs on sleeves, collar or hem. Ermine, chinchilla or fox are the favorite furs. Very distinctive are the severely simple gowns of black or solid shade, draped and caught up with a large, brilliant buckle, with perhaps a girdle of the brilliants, also.

South Sea Island Blue is a lovely shade suggestive of tropical moonlight on some quiet lagoon where sky and water blend into one perfect dream-color of pure delight! There is a model of chiffon velvet with gracefully draped skirt and bodice of the same shade, exquisitely beaded all over in cut steel—trimmed in bands of softest chinchilla fur.

Street Dresses of Velvet are shown in three-piece costumes, too. The models are quite plain or beaded in steel or other colored beads.

The Russian Blouse Models are especially handsome in velvet—usually with the long overblouse of chiffon or other light material, handsomely beaded or embroidered and banded around with some suitable fur.

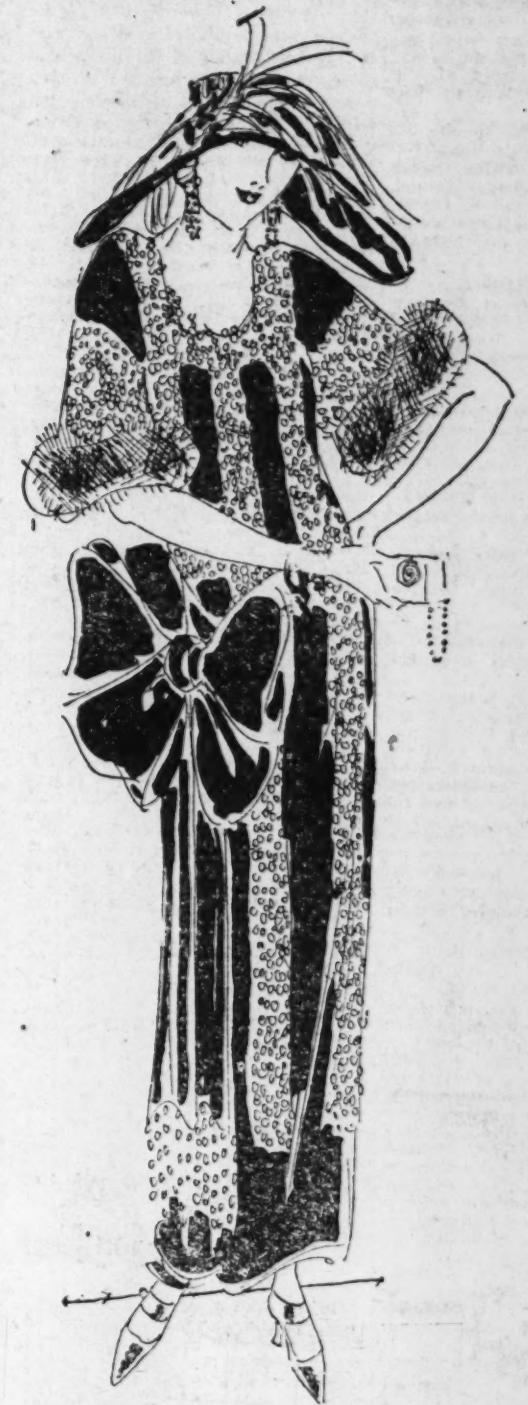

Metal Lace Dresses are exquisitely colorful in gold or silver and in pastel shades or stunning high colors. Many of the handsomest models are girdled in brilliants to match.

Hebe and Bab Robes of chiffon in white, black and all the prettiest of evening shades, owe their rare beauty to the exquisite beadwork which is executed by hand in all-over designs of pearl iridescent, brilliant or other beads that match or contrast with the gown.

Other Beautiful Frocks are shown in charmingly bouffant taffetas of girlish design, in the new chenille materials and in lovely brocaded chiffons, usually in very pleasing two-tone combinations.

Here is an exquisite evening model of orchid taffeta, made over a lace and chiffon foundation. The surplice basque is made with a drop yoke and the skirt is extremely bouffant. The entire skirt is fashioned most beautifully of hand-made petals, outlined with beads. A very pleasing bit of contrasting color is added in round medallions of French flowers and a velvet bow of purple at the back.

... strikingly handsome velvet gown for afternoon or semi-evening wear is this model of black chiffon velvet.

The short sleeves of velvet and chiffon are banded with chinchilla. Exceedingly handsome beaded panels, all hand-work, are skilfully executed in cut steel beads. At one side is a very large bow of black moire ribbon with sash ends tipped in long steel fringe.

50 Years.

Grandfield, Okla.—Mr. G. W. Tis-

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught—I believe I can safely say for fifty years.

"I was born and reared in Texas, Freestone county, sixty-four years ago. I have been married forty-four years. My father used Black-Draught before I was married, and gave it to

"For forty-four years of my married life, it has had a place on our medicine shelf, and is the only laxative, or liver medicine, we use. We use it for torpid liver, sour stomach, headache, indigestion . . . I don't think we could get along without it, knowing what it has done for us, and

The money it has saved. It is just as good and reliable today as it was when we began its use. My boys use it and they are satisfied it's the best liver medicine they have ever used." Thedford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, easy to take and acts in a prompt and natural way.

So many thousands of persons have been benefited by the use of Thedford's Black-Draught, you should have no hesitancy in trying this valuable old well-established remedy, for most liver and stomach disorders.

Blunders

Here is something which can be seen almost any night all over the continent. What is wrong with it?

The answer will be found among today's want ads.

SUPPOSE NOBODY CARED

COMMUNITY CHEST

It's a lucky dog that runs across some Boy Scouts when he needs help.

Settlement work in Atlanta makes good Americans.

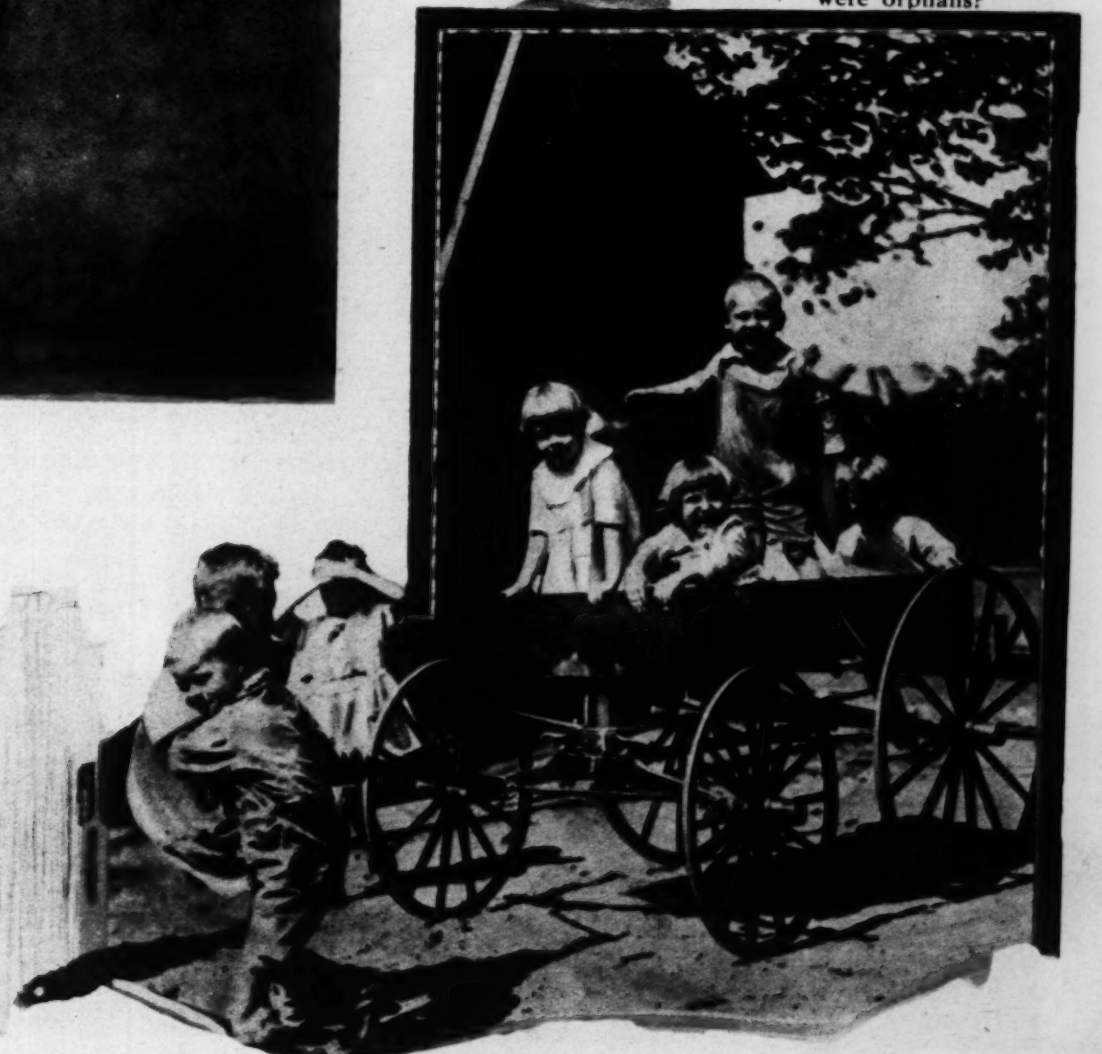

Training that builds character among boys builds Atlanta.

"Why be gloomy, just because were orphans?"

A hot set-to at the Hebrew Orphans Home, where boys and girls grow up to be normal useful folks.

Where would they be, if Atlanta weren't father and mother?

When one has been denied the simple comforts that normally belong with the Evening of Life, there is no other substitute quite like the Home for Old Women.

Comfort for the cheerless, Hope for the down-hearted, food for the hungry, solace for the stricken soul--these are all in the day's work of the Salvation Army.

Some brand-new member of some poor family will get this layette from one group of Camp Fire Girls--who learn to sew and cook as well as play.

Life has some worries, perhaps, at the Atlanta Child's Home, but, thanks to Atlanta, there's lots of fun, too.

When the boy has all but driven his widowed mother to the verge of distraction, the trained workers at the Associated Charities can come in and help--as they help daily with every other kind of human problem in Atlanta.

No reveille is needed around the quarters of Atlanta's little charges. They're up with the sun, demanding the good things that they wouldn't be getting but for the great heart of charity.

Health and happiness for physical and moral girlhood are the aims of Atlanta's association work among young women.

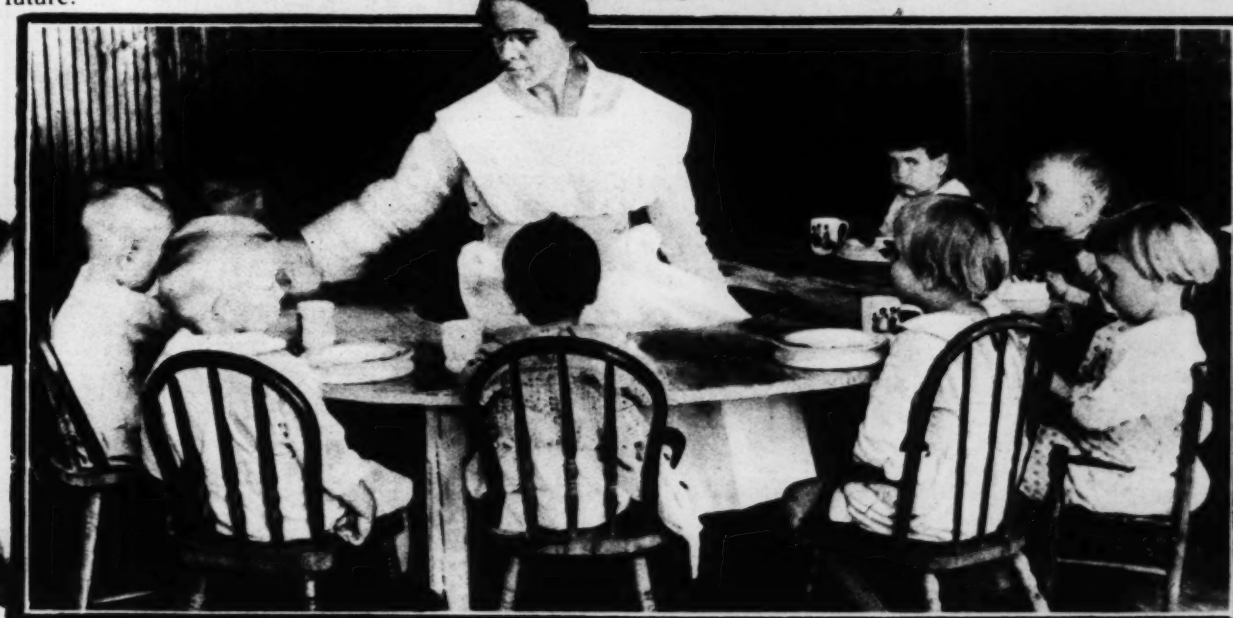

Hope has ended when one enters the Home for Incurables; but there are simple comforts left that every human being should have.

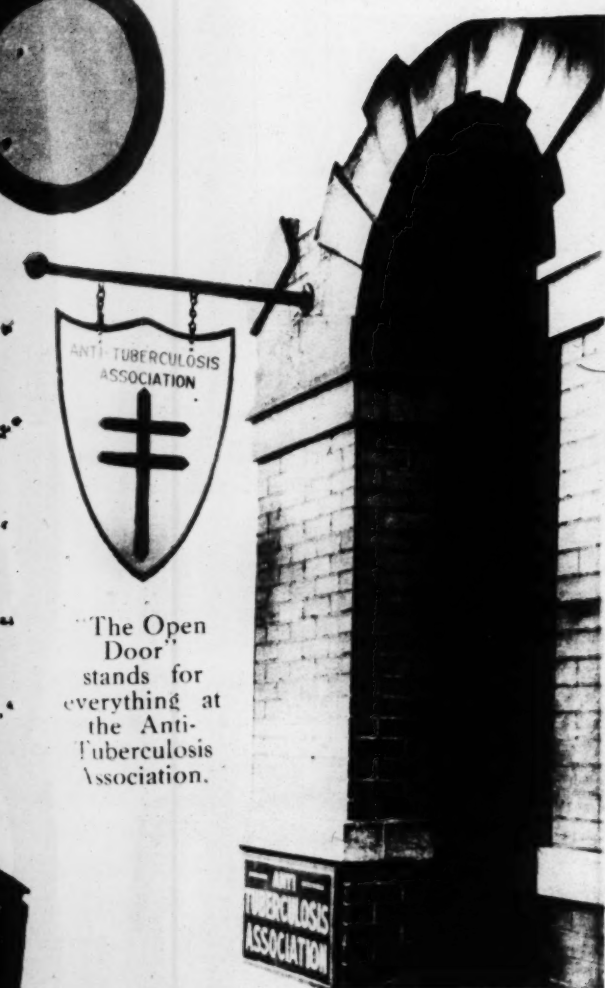

"Lady, can you tell me where my son lives?" Arabian Night Adventures are commonplace affairs in the work of the Travelers' Aid Society.

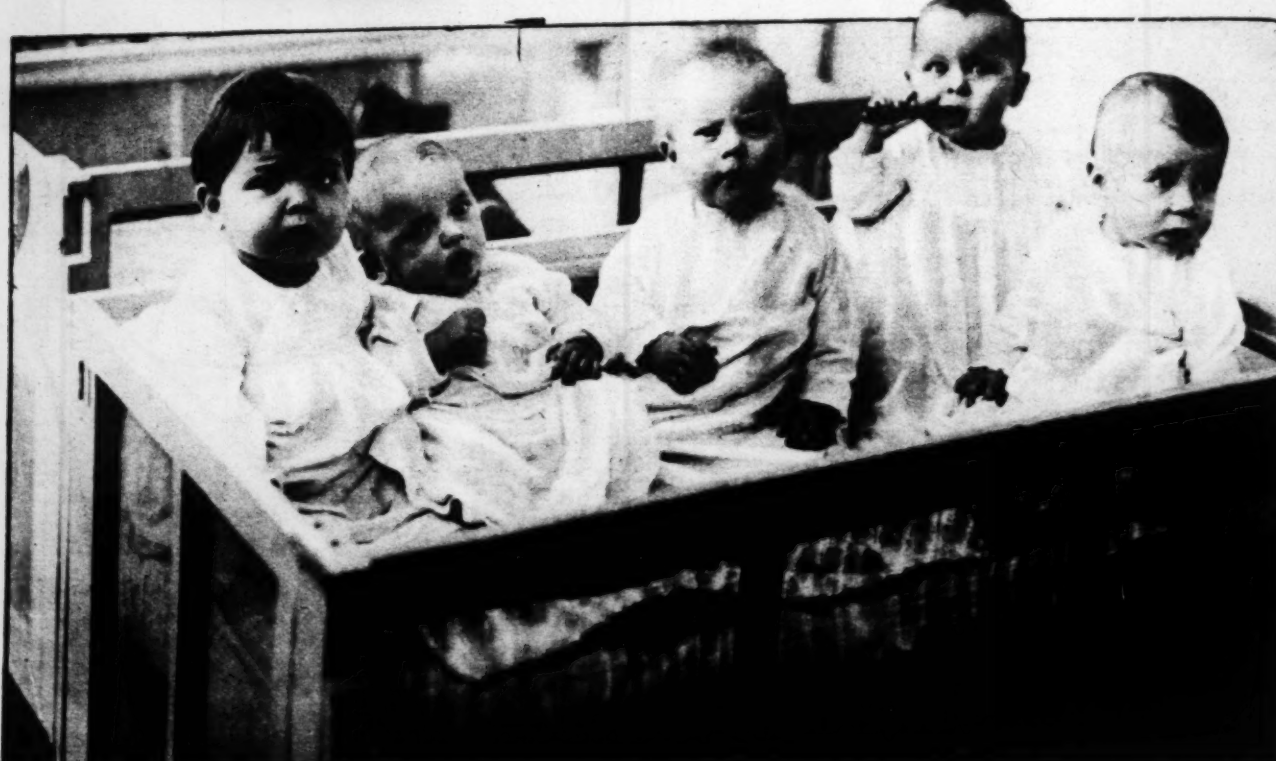

Girl Scouts know the woods, but that is only a small part of their work in building fine women for the future.

Have you ever peeped into the dining room when hungry little orphans were attacking their porridge and milk, given by Atlanta's bounty? Here is a glimpse at one table at the Home of the Friendless. Hardened men smile away a tear when they see these things.

Thousands of young women disappear each year into the horrors of obscurity—but the Churches Homes for Girls in Atlanta stand between their guests and the predatory forces that are always roaming on the hunt.

These youngsters need good milk, and "nothing else but," notwithstanding one of them is gnawing on a clothespin. The West Point Milk Fund supplies it where no other source is available.

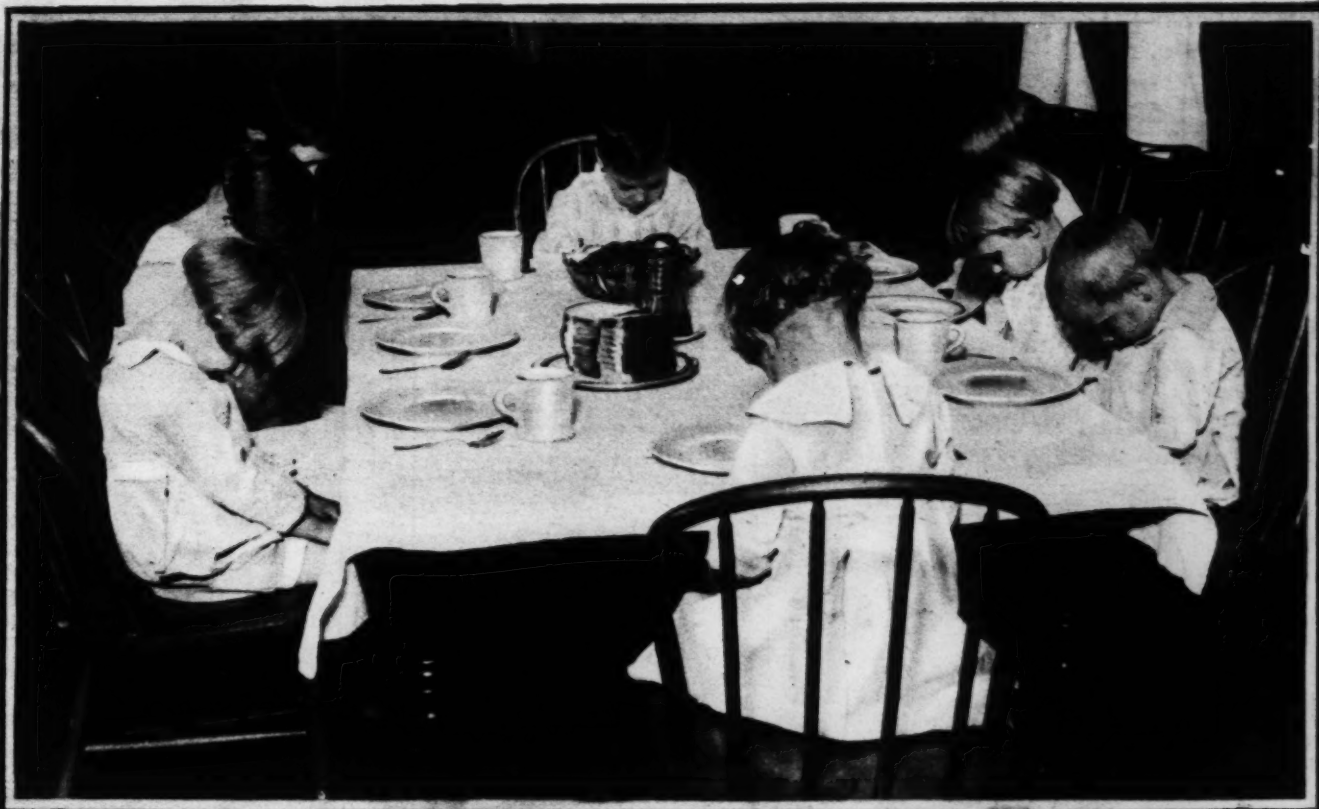

Sewing school is just one of the multiple activities of the five agencies combined in the Federation of Jewish Charities. It helps to build character.

DO YOU CARE?

"Good night, don't rub so hard!" But ears have to be kept clean as a whistle, even where there are lots of ears to be looked after.

"We thank thee, O Lord, that Thou hast given food this day unto us, who but for Thy mercy would be hungry and homeless and helpless."

"Hey! Now look at you! There you go again, messing things up."---The old story of too many cooks.

"Nothing wrong with his lungs."

He's not about to cry. Just the sun.

Washing and ironing, and such-like jobs, are all in the day's routine, when one is learning to make the best of life as it is, and to be independent later.

"Well, it might have been different. But I haven't got long to wait."

"Who says we're friendless? Look at this sand-pile! Atlanta takes care of us!"

"Their mother's dead, too."
